SENATOR HITS PURITANISM

Blames It For Assassination

. . . BAR TO DEMOCRACY

Washington (UPI)—Sen. J. William Fulbright Thursday blamed America's heritage of puritan self-righteousness and vigilante justice for the death of President Kennedy and his accused assassin.

The Arkansas Democrat called for a searching, nationwide self-examination to uncover and erase the "baleful and incongruous strand of intolerance and violence" that mars American life.

"We must recognize that the secular puritanism which we have practiced, with its principles of absolute good, absolute evil and intolerance of dissent, has been an obstacle to the practice of democracy at home and the conduct of an effective foreign policy," said Fulbright in a luncheon speech here.

Dangerous

"We must recognize that the romanticized cult of the frontier, with its glorification of violence and unrestrained individualism, is a childish and dangerous anachronism in a nation which carries the responsibility of the leadership of the free world in the nuclear age," he added.

By renouncing extremism and violence and calling forth America's basic decency and humanity, Fulbright said, the nation might find some redemption for Kennedy's death.

Fulbright spoke at ceremonies honoring five government and congressional officials who received the 1963 Rockefeller Public Service Awards, the highest private citations for distinguished civil service.

Winners

President Robert F. Goheen of Princeton University, which administers the program, gave the $5,000 cash awards to Eugene W. Weber, deputy director of the Corps of Engineers; Henry Loomis, director of Voice of America; Carl M. Marcy, chief of staff of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee; Gabriel O. Wessenauer, power manager of the Tennessee Valley Authority, and Allen V. Astin, director of the National Bureau of Standards.

Fulbright, a former Rhodes Scholar who is chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, asked his fellow countrymen to look at the "element of barbarism in a civilized society."

This national self-examination, he said, "Must be conducted in a spirit of tolerance rather than anger, serenity rather than guilt and Christian charity rather than crusading moralism."

Crime Rate

It must try to explain the high crime rate in U.S. cities, he said, the "malice and hatred of extremist political movements," and the "cruel bigotry of race" that leads to church bombings.

Fulbright suggested that violence in America today arises in part out of the puritan idea that Americans possess undoubted truth and virtue and must perpetuate it by any means. But, he said, "We do not know, nor can we know, with absolute certainty that those who disagree with us are wrong."

Fulbright called for strengthening the nation's English heritage of "tolerance, moderation and individual liberty," which he said is the heart of a democracy. This heritage preserves an "element of doubt," the idea that the other man may be right, too.

Prescription

The senator assailed as a "prescription for anarchy" the frontier idea that "it is proper and even praiseworthy for a citizen to take justice into his hands when he deems his purpose to be a just one or a righteous act of vengeance."

Fulbright said "a shocking example of the spirit of vigilante justice" was found in the slaying of Kennedy's accused assassin, Lee Harvey Oswald, an act he said was widely cheered.

Invite Public To 'Build' Library

Boston (AP) — Members of the Kennedy family and the head of Harvard University Thursday invited people everywhere to contribute toward a $6 million fund for a John F. Kennedy Memorial Library, "that will belong to all the people."

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said his assassinated brother, "Has been deprived of the personal enjoyment of such a library, but its speedy completion would be his dearest wish."

Harvard President Nathan M. Pusey said a newly organized charitable corporation for the library, "Will provide a vehicle for the tangible expression of love and respect for the late President now evident in this country and abroad."

Seeking Way

He also said, "The thousands of his fellow citizens who have been eagerly seeking a way of honoring his memory may find this memorial library a most appropriate way of carrying out their desires."

The attorney general, the Harvard president and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy D-Mass., announced the fund-raising drive at a news conference.

Harvard University donated more than two acres of land for the library building—a site which President Kennedy inspected Oct. 21, just one month and a day before he was assassinated in Dallas, Texas.

Near Houses

The proposed site is within view of rows of buildings which house the men of Harvard, including Winthrop House, President Kennedy's dormitory in his undergraduate days.

Pusey said title to the land and building eventually would be turned over to the U.S. Government as public property, to be administered by the Bureau of Archives.

He disclosed that an understanding had been reached with the President before his death so the library would house not only his own private and state papers, personal effects and memorabilia, but also those of many of his staff.

The library, built with the money of all people would be open to all people, the Kennedy brothers said.

Articles of organization have been filed to incorporate the President John F. Kennedy Memorial Library.

Atty. Gen. Kennedy is president and his brother vice president.

The other incorporators are Pusey, Arthur Schlesinger Jr., K. Lemoyne Billings, Evelyn Lincoln and Edward B. Hanify.

Miss Lincoln was the President's secretary, Schlesinger a member of his staff and Billings and Hanify close friends.

No Squeegees For Fire Dept.

. . . WATER VACUUM USED NOW

By TOM KEITH
Star Staff Writer

"It's worth its weight in gold."

That's Fire Chief Roscoe Benton's assessment of the Salvage Master water vacuum, the "latest fire-fighting development."

The vacuum, owned by the Lincoln Fire Department, is the first to be used in Nebraska.

Benton said the function of the vacuum is to suck water off of a floor, out of a carpet, and away from walls after a fire has been put out.

"Before, we had to scoop the water out, use squeegees, and then sponges to remove water. With the vacuum it is possible to remove the water in a much shorter time and with a minimum of work."

Benton said in small fires in a home there would generally be more water damage to the home than fire damage. "This will lessen that problem considerably," he said.

The chief said the price of the vacuum was about $190. "It holds seven gallons of water, and when its full you just take it to a window and let the water run out of a tube onto the ground."

Example

"A good example of its use was the fire this morning, said Benton, referring to a fire at 4610 Bancroft. "This was a large fire and we used a lot of water," he said. The vacuum sucked the water off the floor and left it dry.

Benton said he hopes to acquire one more vacuum machine this year to give the department full coverage." He said the next year he would like to obtain two more. The first one (now in service) is carried in the chief's car. The next one would be placed in the Battalion chief's car, the third and fourth would be put on engines.

"The unit plugs into an electrical wall socket or into generators carried on the trucks," Benton said.

Benton said the machine has been on the market for about a year. "It will save the public a lot of work and expense, and will save us a lot of work and time," he added.

Omaha Snares Class A Prep Basketball Tourney For 1965

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

Nebraska's biggest basketball attraction, the state high school Class A tournament, will have a new home in 1965.

The Nebraska School Activities Assn. Board of Control Thursday night accepted a motion of the NSAA's representative assembly to move the Class A tourney from Lincoln to Omaha on a one year trial basis for 1965.

The motion came as a surprise windup to the annual session of the 49-member representative assembly after the regulatory group had earlier killed a proposal that would have divided the state meet between different cities.

Ironically, the motion to shift the Class A tournament came from the District I delegation which encompasses the Lincoln schools.

No Lincolnites

There are no Lincolnites among the nine members of the District I delegation, however.

Beatrice Principal Francis Colgan offered the motion to stage the Class A tournament in Omaha and keep the Class B, C and D tourneys in Lincoln.

His motion was amended by Glen Shafer of Gothenburg to make the proposal a one-year trial run. The amended motion passed the representative assembly by a 29-12 vote.

The Board of Control, final authority for changes in NSAA rules, adopted the proposal in a short session following the representative assembly meeting.

The "trial run" aspect of the proposal was the factor believed to have swayed the vote of the outstate delegates.

Only a few minutes earlier they had voted 25-14 against the Omaha-instituted motion to hold the four class tournament in different cities.

The original motion to alternate between Omaha and Lincoln drew lengthy discussion and was finally amended in order that the Board of Control might make the decision on tourney sites.

NSAA Secretary C. C. Thompson said "the same problems (seating would crop up anywhere that the tournament might be held."

The first proposal to split the sites of the state tournament found only Districts II and III favoring revision of the present setup. District II is the Omaha area and III the Northeast sector of the state.

District VI, the western delegation, was the only group unanimous opposed to the later motion that resulted in the 1965 change.

This year's tournament will remain in Lincoln with the University of Nebraska Coliseum, Pershing Auditorium, Johnson Gymnasium and the Nebraska Wesleyan's Ira Taylor Gymnasium being utilized for the four classes of play.

In other action the representative assembly rejected by a 34-6 vote Ralston Superintendent D. E. Nelson's proposed five-class basketball system and unanimously approved a proposal to incorporate the NSAA.

Leslie T. Chamerlin of Alliance was named chairman of the Board of Control, succeeding L. H. Kuhre of Milford.

Pilgrimage May Improve Catholic Relations With Jews And Moslems

Jerusalem (AP) — The visit of Pope Paul VI to the Holy Land early in January was seen in this divided city Thursday night as a pilgrimage to improve Roman Catholic relations with Jews and Moslems.

Some even expressed belief that the Pope's unprecedented 1,500-mile journey might help to allay anger and suspicion that wall off Jews from the Moslem arabs in the volatile Middle East.

One concern expressed early was for the safety of the pontiff in his brief travels through the holy places, some in Moslem Jordan, the others in Israel. Tempers are high and Jew and Arab often shoot each other.

A Jordanian official said "the most rigid security measures" will be in force while the pontiff visits the holy places of Jordan as a personal guest of King Hussein, a Moslem.

Neither in the Israeli section of Jerusalem nor in the Jordan quarter had any official word been received from the Vatican of the pontiff's plans. Never before has a Pope visited the Holy Land although some made the journey before elevation to the papacy.

All officials knew was what has been publicly announced —that the Pope said in Vatican City Wednesday he would make a brief visit to the Holy Land "on behalf of peace among men," and the later Vatican statement that the trips would be made in the first 10 days of January.

However, tentative plans could be based on his expressed desire to see the holy places. In Jordan are the Holy Sepulchre in the walled old city of Jersusalem; Bethlehem, where the Bible says Jesus was born, and the Garden of Gethsemane, where the Romans came to arrest him and start him on the way to the cross.

Inside Israel are Nazareth, where Jesus was a carpenter; the Sea of Galilee, and Ainkarem, birthplace of John the Baptist.

There was no question of the warmth of his welcome in either Jordan or Israel, Emphasizing that the government has no official knowledge of the Pope's plan, Dr. Zerah Wahrhaftig, Israel's minister for religious affairs, declared: "If he comes he will be welcomed as a most honored guest." Wahrhaftig's remarks were echoed by a foreign ministry spokesman.

Premier Hussein Ibn Nasser of Jordan said Jordan will "joyfully and wholeheartedly welcome the visit of his holiness and will do everything possible to make it a happy visit."

CONFEREES AGREE ON FOREIGN AID BILL

Washington (AP)— Senate-House conferees agreed Thursday on a compromise $3,599,050,000 foreign aid authorization bill stripped of many of the restrictive amendments opposed by the administration.

The total, setting a ceiling on appropriations to be made in a separate bill later, compares with the $4,529,615,000 urged by the late President John F. Kennedy.

The conference agreement on the authorization measure is expected to be acted on next week, first by the House and then by the Senate.

Indications are, however, that the appropriation bill providing funds for the foreign aid program may not be passed before Congress starts a Christmas recess even though the current fiscal year began last July 1.

The authorization bill totaled $3.5 billion as first passed by the House and $3.7 billion as passed by the Senate. The conferees largely split the difference.

The major issue in dispute between the two branches was resolved with agreement to grant the president authority to continue most favored nation treatment of Poland and Yugoslavia in trade relations.

This was in line with a provision in the Senate bill restoring presidential authority that Congress had voted to eliminate when it passed the Trade Expansion Act last year.

The effect is to let the President extend to Poland and Yugoslavia tariff concessions made to other nations when he determines this would be important to the national interest and would promote the independence of these countries from Communist domination or control.

'Radical Right' Helped Build Climate Of Hatred

Washington (AP) — Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., said Thursday "the so-called radical right" and others helped create a climate of hatred that led to President Kennedy's assassination.

"It is not only necessary that we should not hate but it is also important that we should speak out against hate," Douglas said in a recorded radio interview.

"While the assassination of the President was undoubtedly carried out by a man of extreme left — either a Communist or very close to the Communists — it is also true that the so-called radical right has been preaching hatred for some years," Douglas said.

Helped

"I think that they have helped, with others, to create a climate of opinion and of feeling under which slightly disordered persons feel that it is perfectly proper for them to take the law into their own hands and to kill those of whom they disapprove."

He spoke on the AFL-CIO's program," Washington Reports to the People," which is distributed to about 700 radio stations.

In a separate interview for the same program, Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., said hatred should be eliminated from all relationships, including politics.

Derision

"There are those who think that you are not a very good party man if you don't sing a song, not exactly of hatred but of derision, make quite violent partisan attacks on the members of the other party," said Case.

Rep. Smith Promises Action

. . . SLOWS RIGHTS BILL PUSH

Washington (AP) —A promise by Chairman Howard W. Smith, D-Va., of the House Rules Committee for action on the civil rights bill in January slowed down Thursday a drive to force action on the legislation this month.

Democratic leaders said, however, they still plan to push a discharge petition that would take the bill away from the committee.

Smith, whose refusal to schedule hearings on a bill he strongly opposes led to launching of the petition plan by Democratic leaders, issued a statement saying he would hold hearings "reasonably soon in January after the Congress reconvenes."

Applauded

The statement was widely applauded on Capitol Hill, particularly by Republicans, who had opposed the discharge petition as disruptive of orderly legislative procedures.

House Republican leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana said Smith's action means, "We will have orderly consideration of a highly controversial, complex matter."

He predicted the bill would pass the House before the end of January.

Halleck said he made a similar prediction at a White House breakfast Thursday with President Johnson, who has urged Congress to pass the bill with all possible speed but set no target date.

No Change

House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., said there will be no change in plans to file the discharge petition Monday and try to get the 218 signatures needed — a majority of the 435 members —to take the bill away from the committee.

McCormack said he still favors having hearings before the Christmas recess so the bill could be voted on by the House as soon as it returns in January.

Democrats generally were guarded in their reaction to Smith's announcement. Their principal worry was that he might try to stretch out the hearings by letting southern opponents of the bill testify at length.

Not Two Weeks

But Halleck said he is certain the hearings won't run more than two weeks. Rep. Clarence J. Brown of Ohio, the ranking Republican on the rules committee, said he thinks they will last only 8 to 10 days.

Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., chairman of the judiciary committee, who plans to file the discharge petition Monday, said if Smith would make a public announcement that the hearings would last only two weeks the petition would not be filed. Smith had no further comment.

There is little doubt, however, that the threat of the petition helped induce Smith to announce hearings with the added likelihood that Halleck and Brown had a hand in persuading him.

The Republicans had announced they would refrain from signing the petition, and it is believed they told Smith the price of their abstaining would be early January hearings. Rather than lose control of the bill through the discharge petition, Smith yielded.

Germans Test Rockets

. . . PLAN TO SELL THEM TO OTHERS

Cuxhaven, Germany (AP) — A new West German firm that hopes to sell modern weapons to developing countries staged its first public rocket-firing demonstration on the North Sea coast near here Thursday. Officials said they got some orders.

Military observers from the Middle East were among the 20-odd interested observers of the display staged by the Weapons and Aviation Armament Corp., of Hamburg. Company officials said they received orders running into "millions of marks" after the demonstration but declined to say where the orders had come from.

The corporation is the first German firm known to develop military rockets since Adolf Hitler ordered construction of the V1 and V2 rockets that lashed Britain in World War II and opened the space age.

Richard Stengler, general manager of the corporation, indicated at a news conference that there have been some previous firing tests abroad because of the difficulty in obtaining permits in Germany.

The nine-month-old corporation, which has a capital stock of $37,500, is a joint venture of some 40 small German firms from various industrial branches. Company officials have asserted that because of this broad base, the corporation would be able to underprice big manufacturers in the international arms market.

Thursday's rockets were described as being of use for research only. Officials said regular production of military equipment — to include a wide range of weapons beside rockets — has not yet begun. But the mere announcement of the company's plans — particularly of its intention to concentrate sales efforts on developing countries, has stirred wide criticism.

Cooperation of German wartime experts in building up the missiles industry of the United Arab Republic had prompted a strong-worded Israeli protest to Bonn earlier this year. At the time, a government spokesman said Bonn had no legal means to stop the work of these experts abroad. But he also stated that West Germany was following a "policy of no weapons deliveries to tense areas."

On the basis of these words it would seem doubtful that the government would issue export licenses for rocket shipments to developing countries. General manager Stengler said Thursday, however, he was confident the licenses would be granted "because certain government circles are interested in supporting us."

Moro Takes Control In Italy

Rome (AP)— Premier Aldo Moro's left-leaning government of Christian Democrats and Marxist Socialists took office Thursday after weeks of bickering which gave little promise of a stable future.

The new coalition put Pietro Nenni's hammer and sickle Socialist Party back in the government for the first time since 1947.

That year Italy's great postwar premier, Alcide de Gasperi, kicked Nenni's socialists and Palmiro Togliatti's Communists out of the government and said they could never come back.

Rioting

The two powerful left-wing parties carried their battle to the streets and squares in a year of rioting that almost overthrew the young Italian democracy.

Togliatti, Minister of Justice until De Gasperi formed his all Christian Democrat majority government in 1947, remained alone Thursday as the major leaders of the opposition.

Nenni, 72, political wizard who has worked both sides of the street, was back in his 1945 post as deputy premier. He had been foreign minister in 1946 and 1947.

Reluctance

Many of Nenni's own party, which still sings the Internationale, followed him back into the government with reluctance or outright hostility. They are the second strongest party in the coalition of Christian Democrats, Socialists, Democratic Socialists and Republicans.

Moro gave his own party 16 cabinet posts, including pro-NATO Giulio Andreoitti in the key defense ministry.

Unease at the sharply contrasting new government lineup was reflected quickly. Major stocks on the Milan market showed declines.

GOV. CONNALLY . . . greeted by his children.

CONNALLY RELEASED FROM HOSPITAL

Austin (UPI) — Gov. John Connally of Texas, grievously wounded in the assassination of President Kennedy but now mending rapidly, came home Thursday from Parkland Memorial Hospital in Dallas.

The three Connally children — John, 17, Sharon, 14, and Mark, 11 — met the 46-year-old governor and his wife Nellie at Austin Municipal Airport. Connally and his son John shook hands.

But the other two children threw their arms around their father and kissed his cheeks. They also kissed their mother, who has been in Dallas at the governor's bedside.

Broke Wrist

The second of three bullets fired by Kennedy's assassin Nov. 22 passed through Connally's body broke his right wrist in two places and lodged in his right thigh.

"I'm feeling fine," Connally said when he stepped out of his plane. "My chest is in good shape. My leg is doing well. The only problem is my right wrist."

His wrist will have to remain in a cast 90 days or more and it will be six months before doctors can tell whether he will have full use of his wrist and hand.

Plans To Rest

Connally and his family went directly to the governor's mansion. He does not expect to leave it much for the rest of the month.

He told 200 doctors, nurses and technicians goodbye from a wheelchair in the cafeteria of Parkland Hospital in Dallas.

"I'm eternally grateful to you," he said. "I owe my life to you at Parkland. I'm sorry I had to meet you under these circumstances."

Tolerance

Connally pleaded again for a return to patience and tolerance, a theme he talked on extensively last week in his first news conference since the assassination.

He said extremism "is flourishing in Texas as in every other state because of a lack of articulation by people of reason, logic and sound views."

"The voice of the demagogue and the extremist is always the loudest," he said. "Other people are afraid to speak for fear of being drawn into the controversy.

"We must try to insure a political atmosphere that would provide the people the opportunity to express themselves without this fear."

Venezuelan Commies Free Chenault

Caracas, Venezuela (AP) — Red terrorists freed U.S. Col. James K. Chenault unharmed at dawn Thursday, belatedly keeping a promise they made when they kidnaped him Nov. 27 to propagandize their faltering fight against Venezuela's government.

"It's a great feeling to be free again," said Chenault, Texas-born, 46-year old deputy chief of the U.S. military mission in Venezuela.

He was released in a residential district east of the capital's business center. He looked tired, but otherwise was in good condition after 191 hours of imprisonment which he said he was forced to spend in pajamas in a modest home somewhere in Caracas.

Brain-Washing

Chenault told a news conference his Spanish-speaking captors — members of the Armed Forces of National Liberation — tried brain-washing, but that he responded with some facts about American life — "The status of the military in the United States, our laws, our police system and family life."

"I don't now if they were interested, but they listened," he said.

Chenault said he was watched constantly by two guards, but "received reasonably good treatment, considering the circumstances."

Given Red Books

"I was urged to read books on Communism, some printed in Czechoslovakia, but I rejected them," he said. "One of my captors hammered away at me continuallay in an attempt at political indoctrination, describing the virtues of Communism."

Under FALN plans announced by telephone to newspapers immediately after four armed youths abducted Chenault when he left his home last week, he was to have been released Saturday. That was the eve of a national election which the FALN hoped to sabotage in its drive to wreck democratic processes and overthrow President Romulo Betancourt's moderate government.

But the terrorists drive fizzled. A record number of Venezuelans ignored death threats to all in the streets and turned out to vote. The leader in the seven-man presidential race, in returns still being tabulated, is Raul Leoni, the candidate of Betancourt's Democratic Action Party.

New Deal's Herbert Lehman Dies

New York (UPI) — Herbert H. Lehman, 85, New Deal architect and a liberal leader of the Democratic Party, died Thursday of a heart attack as he prepared to leave for the White House to receive the nation's highest civilian peacetime honor awarded to him by the martyred President Kennedy.

Lehman succeeded Franklin D. Roosevelt as governor of New York and served four terms, matched only by the four terms of Al Smith. He resigned as governor in 1942 to head the nation's Foreign Relief and Rehabilitation Office. He served from 1949 to 1957 as U.S. Senator.

Funeral services were scheduled for Sunday at 1 p.m. EST at the Temple Emanu-El in Manhattan. Burial will be private. Friday and Saturday the body will be at the Universal Chapel in Manhattan.

Sudden

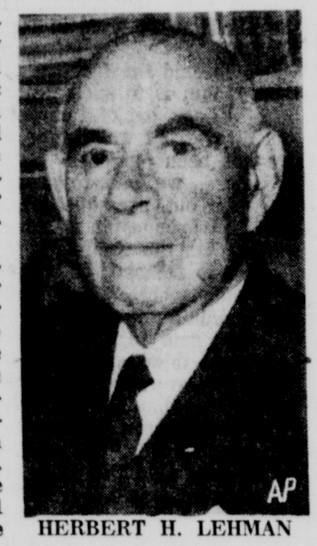

"It was so sudden, we don't know exactly what happened," the governor's secretary said.

Lehman had reservations at 1 p.m. EST on a plane for Washington. He was scheduled to receive one of the Presidential Freedom Medals Friday at the White House. The medals were awarded to 31 men on July 4 by President Kennedy. President Johnson decided to go ahead with the presentations.

President Johnson said Lehman's death grieved him. He called Lehman a "distinguished leader who ably and effectively served his state and nation."

Best Epitaph

He said perhaps the best epitaph could be the citation which was to accompany the medal. It said: "Citizen and statesman, he has used wisdom and compassion as the tools of the government and has made politics the highest form of public service."

HERBERT H. LEHMAN

Lehman's son, John, a Wall Street financier, said his father had no history of heart trouble.

Lehman was a member of one of the nation's great financial dynasties. But he retired from investment banking in 1928 to work for the welfare of the average citizen.

Good Works

During his governorship, New York got the first state public housing program in the country, a state labor relations act, an unemployment insurance law and other liberal legislation.

He was known as "The Conscience of The Senate," fought for civil rights legislation and against Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy. He denounced McCarthy repeatedly on the Senate floor for abridging constitutional rights in his search for American Communists.

Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson said that Lehman still was the conscience of political liberalism in America.

Content

Lehman was one of President Roosevelt's closest associates and many observers thought the stocky, undramatic Lehman could have been more in the national spotlight if he had not been content to serve as one of the driving forces behind the scenes.

He was one of the greatest Democratic vote getters in New York history.

Lehman is survived by his wife, the former Edith Altschul, his son, John, and a daughter, Mrs. Hilda Wise, of Cleveland. Another son, Peter was killed in World War II.

NFO Re-Elects Staley After Uprising Crushed

. . . NEW HOLDING ACTION PLEDGED

Des Moines (UPI) — Oren Lee Staley won overwhelming re-election to his 9th term as president of the National Farmers Organization (NFO) Thursday night after breaking the back of a rebellious faction in a convention-floor inquisition.

Staley, the only president the 8-year-old farm group has ever had, was swept into office over only token opposition in an anti-climatic finish to what had been the most serious challenge ever to his leadership.

The 40-year-old Rea, Mo., hog farmer, outpolled the lone opponent who stayed in the race 4,774 to 581 on the first ballot and became more firmly entrenched than ever as "Mr. NFO."

Not only had a "splinter" uprising been crushed, but the convention delegates approved a motion spelling out the power of the board of directors to "purge" dissident members from the organization.

'Holding' Pledged

Staley, in a 12-minute acceptance speech after his election, promised that the NFO was "preparing to organize the greatest holding action the world has ever seen" in an effort to win fair prices for farmers. He gave no timetable for this holding action.

The timing of the holding action would depend on the work of the delegates in organizing their areas and whether processors sign contracts with the NFO, he said. Unless the contractors sign up "in satisfactory numbers, he said, "our production will stay on the farm."

He said this would include dairy products, livestock, grain, edible beans and possibly potatoes."

Long Count

Even though Staley's reelection was a foregone conclusion, it took an agonizing three hours to count the ballots before it was announced that Staley had defeated his lone opponent — Forest Nave Jr., 57, Lexington, Mo.

Staley's backers among the 7,000 delegates had beaten the splinter group into submission in a 16-hour shouting, fist-waving session Wednesday night and early Thursday.

After returning to the hall Thursday, the delegates approved a motion giving the NFO board of directors power to take action, including expulsion from membership, against any member who refuses to follow the policies set by the convention or the board. The resolution said the purpose was to "prevent a recurrence of rumors spreading and false statements about NFO activities or officers."

Whether the new rule would be used to discipline or oust former NFO Vice President Robert Casper, Winterset, Iowa, and his splinter group, was not certain.

Casper, who bowed to the pressure from the delegates and withdrew all his charges, shook hands with Staley and said he would remain in the NFO. He said he believed the young farm group would "jell back together."

A standing ovation reverberated through the giant Veterans Memorial Auditorium when Staley was nominated while only a scattering of applause greeted Nave's nomination.

Erhard Pfingsten, Sergeant Bluff, Iowa, vice president of the NFO, nominated Staley and he was interrupted three times by applause before he could mention Staley's name.

Highway Safety Contest Open To All State Schools

Gov. Frank Morrison emphasized Thursday it was his intention that the essay contest on highway safety to be conducetd among junior and senior high school students woulld be for youth in all Nebraska schools, parochial and private, as well as public schools.

The contest, sponsored by the governor and State Traffic Safety Coordinator Tom Ryan, is to be conducted between now and Jan. 1.

Morrison said Thursday he considers it imperative that traffic safety responsibility be impressed upon all youth, and it was never his intention to restrict the contest to public school students.

A committee will select five top essays and the winning writers will be rewarded with citations from the governor and honored at a dinner at the Governor's Mansion.

$4.5 Billion Public Works Bill OKd By Senate Group

Washington (AP)— The Senate Appropriations Committee approved a $4.5 billion public works money bill Thursday.

The bill includes more than $17 million for three Nebraska projects. These are Salt Creeek for which $4.2 million is earmarked; Ainsworth Unit, $8.1 million; and Farwell Unit, $5 million.

Salt Creek is an Army Engineer project and the other two Bureau of Reclamation jobs. Another Nebraska reclamation project, Frenchman Cambridge Division, would receive $1.78 million.

Reclamation planning funds included $195,000 for Cedar Rapids Division and $84,000 for the North Republican Unit of the Upper Republican Division, both in Nebraska.

Engineer construction funds included $650,000 for Gering Valley and among planning funds were $80,000 for Little Papillion Creek and $45,000 for Norfolk. Surveys of the Big Blue River ($30,000), Elkhorn River ($10,000), Nemaha — Little Nemaha ($15,000) and Platte River ($30,000) also would be financed under the bill.

The bill also includes $17 million for agricultural levees and channel improvement along the Missouri River. These funds, among other things, would permit completion of a 9-foot navigation channel between St. Louis and Kansas City.

Mistrial Declared On Westinghouse Price-Fix Charge

New York, Friday (UPI)— A federal court jury said it was unable to reach a verdict early Friday in the government's anti-trust price-fixing case against Westinghouse Electric Corp. The judge declared a mistrial.

A government spokesman said "I imagine so" when asked if a new trial would be sought. No date was set for any further action.

Westinghouse had been one of several corporations and individauls indicted on a conspiracy charge which accused them of fixing prices of brazing alloys used for welding. It is widely used by manufactures of radios, refrigerators and jet engines.

Typer Endorses Peterson's Plan

Crete (UPI) — The president of Doane College Thursday gave his endorsement to a plan proposed by former Gov. Val Peterson for utilization of private institutions of higher education on the junior college level.

Doane President Donald M. Typer, in a letter to Peterson, said he feels it is clear Nebraska's private colleges are not crowded. Peterson is now a University of Nebraska Regent and a Hastings business man.

Typer said he feels it would be less expensive to increase private college facilities than construct new facilities for public instruction to meet growing classroom needs.

Peterson made his suggestion at a kickoff luncheon of Nebraska Wesleyan's great teaching program in Lincoln Monday.

He said he would like to see, if constitutional, the formation of junior college districts in cities with private schools. Tuition could be paid by the district directly to the students to enable them to enroll at the private college for the first two college years, Peterson said.

Outside Aid For Research Work Urged

. . . For Wheat Crop

Nebraska should not expect to go it alone in research efforts to conquer wheat streak mosaic, currently posing an extremely serious threat to the 1964 Nebraska wheat crop, the Nebraska Wheat Commission said Thursday.

Chairman William G. Lindeken said the commission feels that funds from outside the state should be pooled with in-state funds to finance research.

"We recognize that wheat streak mosaic does pose a serious problem to the wheat producers of Nebraska," he said. "But with limited funds available to the commission we feel a plan of attack must be made which will take advantage of all the possible resources available.

"This problem is not limited to Nebraska, but affects wheat growers in adjacent states as well. Therefore, while Nebraska is taking the lead in proposing a research project the commission feels that regional and federal funds should be used to solve what is a regional and national problem for wheat growers."

At a meeting this week, the commission heard details of a project on mosaic control research as proposed by scientists from the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture.

The commission appointed a three member committee including Howard Oberg and Gary Whiteley of Lincoln and Crason Smith of Ogallala to discuss the matter further with Dean Elvin Frolik of the Ag College.

Omahan Taken To Hospital Here After Auto Crash

An Omaha boy, Jim Roemen, 17, was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital early Friday morning after a 1-car accident just north of Lincoln on Interstate 80.

Roemen told police his car left the road at 10 p.m. Thursday. He was picked up by Edward Zadina of Wilber at about midnight. Zadina told police the car Roemen was driving had not turned over.

Roemen was westbound, from Omaha.

No Charges Filed In Child's Death

Omaha (UPI) — Officials ruled out charges in the death of Douglas Whiting, 5.

The boy's coat caught in the left rear dual wheels of a school bus, the Nebraska Patrol said. He apparently was trying to catch the bus as it pulled away from a stop.

The accident occurred Tuesday near 60th and Grover Streets.

Gift Receiving Comes Early For Smiths

Gibbon (AP) — Last Memorial Day Jerry Smith started building a new house for himself and his wife. He was getting ready to shingle the roof in June when he was stricken with a rare bone disease.

But the Smiths today have an all-but-completed home where Smith, still bed-ridden, returned recently.

"When illness struck," Mrs. Smith reported this week, "the people of Gibbon turned out by the score and converted a shell of a house into the comfortable home we are living in today."

"There were many men and women working here that I never saw before," she said. "They were not friends but strangers helping out in time of need."

A drive to finish the house was begun Nov. 5 while Smith was in a Grand Island hospital. As many as 50 volunteers were on the job at one time. Women laid and finished the floors and did most of the interior painting in the five room house.

There is still some finishing to be done but the Gibbon volunteers hope to complete it before cold weather.

Tot Dies After Liver Donor Search Fails

Denver (UPI) — Little Nancy Joe Anne Schuldies of Scottsbluff, Neb., died here after a prolonged but fruitless search for a liver donor.

The University of Colorado medical center revealed Thursday that Nancy Jo Anne, 13 months, died in Colorado General Hospital Nov. 17. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jake Schuldies.

Physicians said the death was the tragic end to one of the most heartbreaking stories to develop from the pioneering series of transplant operations that began in November, 1962.

Nancy Jo Anne was admitted to the hospital when she was nine months old as a possible liver transplant patient. She was born with a liver that had no ducts to carry essential body fluids and substances, a fatal defect unless a transplant could be performed.

She remained in the hospital through the summer. Her only chance was that a liver could be given. It had to come from a child no older than three, who died of another cause.

But Nancy Jo Anne's time ran out and she was discharged as no longer being a "suitable candidate" for a transplant. Her condition worsened and she was readmitted, without hope of recovery.

Personal Habits Important

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Thirty years ago today, the "boys" were whooping it up down at the local tavern. They were celebrating because the end had just come to prohibition, an effort of high principle but of little real value. In fact, many argue that prohibition was actually a liability since it turned the business of alcoholic beverages over to the underworld and served as a temptation to many who might otherwise not be tempted to drink.

But prohibition to a greater or lesser degree still is argued yet today in the form of one kind of control and another over the distribution and consumption of alcoholic beverages. Probably, prohibition, as much as anything else, was tried too soon. There was at the time of its beginning still much of the untamed in the American people. There was still too much in the American people of the heritage of the settlement of this nation. Now, there is a part of that heritage that we all hope remains with us forever but there were elements of it that could be questioned.

Restriction Too Soon

The settlement of America was not only a noble thing, but it was often a reckless adventure. It demanded of those who did the settling a physical strength equal to or perhaps greater than their intellectual ability. It created in many places a raw-boned society that lived as though tomorrow might never come and living on this earth was an end unto itself.

Even as the West was calmed, the nation entered into a period of economic advancement. It experienced tremendous growth and leaped headlong into an industrial revolution that shook the foundations of the world. A spirit of abandon still very much characterized a great number of citizens of this land and this spirit was not in keeping with limitations such as prohibition.

We find today that the per capita consumption of alcoholic beverages is down from what it was even when such consumption was illegal. Perhaps there is a glimmer of hope here that there is a growing spirit of refinement and responsibility among the American people. Something of the same thing may be happening in the field of tobacco. Soon to be released is a new government study of the effects of smoking upon those who have the habit. It will not be the first such report but it is anticipated with a great variety of thoughts. Apprehension is probably the most descriptive of this anticipation. There is apprehension on the part of the tobacco industry, on the part of economists and on the part of smokers.

For the industry, it is of obvious concern to them that their product faces the risk of being labelled a menace to the public health. This possible menace being cancer, it could hardly be any more influential. The economists are concerned not so much with any health problem but with the simple arithmetic of the matter. The tobacco industry is a big one and its demise would be felt in a land where unemployment is already a problem that seems to defy solution. The smoker is concerned because it is he who must make the choice between the possible risk to health and pleasure of smoking.

Past studies have attempted to link smoking and lung cancer but the certainty of this has always hung in the balance. It has never been said with finality that smoking will cause cancer. It is indicated, rather, that it is a cause with some cases of cancer but not always a cause of cancer.

Thus, the smoker can continue with the thought or hope that he will be one of those who will not be adversely affected by the habit. This may be a dangerous thought or hope but habits are difficult things to dislodge and break up. Actually, it would be a fine thing if there were no smoking or drinking whatsoever throughout the nation.

Certainly, it cannot be argued that either thing is a net asset to the nation and its people. And while both may continue in spite of what is desirable, it is not as hopeless a situation as it might seem. Consumption of alcohol appears to be at least arrested and the continuing examination of tobacco and its effects upon health undoubtedly contributes to a decline in the pursuit of this habit. It would seem that the total environment of people today would direct them toward the elimination of doubtful personal habits.

Taking Personal Stock

It is hoped that as a new generation of Americans come on, they will be influenced toward those personal habits that are not subject to any kind of criticism. With the old, much is already lost but with the new, there is always hope. It is in the beginning that the course of future action is determined rather than any alteration at some distant point along the way.

Wesleyan Meeting Its Challenge

Nebraska Wesleyan University is nearing the conclusion of its sixth annual fund drive in support of its Great Teaching program. The public response to this program has grown through the years, as has the fulfillment by Wesleyan of its responsibilities in the field of eduction.

The very purpose of the Great Teaching program is to improve the quality of the faculty of this outstanding liberal arts institution. There is no question that today there is a great awareness of the need to provide our young people with the best education possible.

This cannot be provided, however, through some magic spell cast over all students. The way to the minds of these young people will be found only through the faculty and facilities of the schools they attend.

Wesleyan is a university that has constantly sought to provide its student body with a challenge beyond the average. This it seeks to do in raising funds for the advancement of salary levels within its faculty ranks.

The average faculty salary at Wesleyan, including some top level administrative posts with faculty status, is $6,976. Certainly, this is not at all an excessive figure when we consider the return provided by it. Not really Wesleyan, but the entire community, state and nation are the beneficiaries of continued excellence in teaching.

When the Great Teaching program can be concluded with full success, those who supported it can take comfort and pride in the fact that they made an investment in the name of humanity for all the future. These contributors will have made the world a more rewarding place in which to live by providing it with understanding and capable leadership.

Sense In Cooperation

The Des Moines Register has taken lively interest in the problem of the criminally insane as discussed during the sessions of the Midwest Governor's Conference recently in Omaha.

The problem was stated by the director of health services for North Dakota, Dr. Albert F. Samuelson. He explained that his state prison offered maximum security with little in the way of a remedial program. The state insane hospital pursued a remedial program but the institution lacked adequate security facilities. Meantime, the legislature considered the cost of an adequate remedial program plus security great enough to be prohibitive in terms of North Dakota's capacity to pay.

The Register observed that the similar dilemma applied to Iowa and the other neighboring Midwest states.

Separate investment in terms of case load, the Register observes, raises the question of whether it would not be more sensible for the several states to support a cooperative venture. It expressed hope that Iowa would give the idea deep and dispassionate study.

State sovereignty in numerous interests can be carried too far. The problem of the criminally insane is not exclusive to any state and it becomes a poor thing when each determines to hold it so when the financial and professional demands are greater that the state's reasonable capacity.

The principle of cooperative education is gaining justifiable strength. The time is approaching when a student may pursue his education in various schools according to which each addresses itself to specialties in instruction beyond the financial capacity of the others. Such a plan does not depreciate the position of the separate universities, but provides the student with better education for the dollar. More effective treatment of the criminally insane is amenable to the same logic.

The Fermi Award

It was the desire of the late President John F. Kennedy to present the Fermi Award to Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer. It would have permitted him to stand four-square beside the American scientist who, a decade ago, was given a bad name by the witch hunters.

As it turned out the opportunity fell to President Johnson who fulfilled it with pleased alacrity. One senator refused to attend and apparently intends to feed on his prejudice.

At this moment it is well to review the course of Dr. Oppenheimer. He was one of the principle figures among the group of scientists who produced the atomic bomb for the United States. He was the administrator of the Los Alamos program. His sense of ethics caused him to question whether the bomb was a service to society. It raised grave doubts in his mind whether the H bomb should be fashioned. Such feelings are hardly subversive. Many still labor with that question.

Nevertheless, Oppenheimer became the target of frenetic critics and ultimately was deprived of security clearance. This was done in the absence of evidence of wrongdoing. The experience was indeed painful to the victim.

Now that a decade has passed the years have failed to produce anything to support the original punishment. There has been nothing that suspicion might feed upon. Meantime, much of the doctor's former position has been reinstated. The Fermi award now will indicate to some that he has been forgiven.

We may ask, forgiven of what? Who did the wrong, Dr. Oppenheimer or the country?

A country dedicated to reasonable emotional restraint would have been saved from its error. Giving an award now to a deserving man does not clear the country. It only clears the record. The case will not be closed until the country takes the pledge to quit fooling with dangerous emotionalism.

Sisters Brighten White House Life

(Editor's note—The Washington Merry-Go-Round is written today by Jack Anderson, associate of Drew Pearson.)

WASHINGTON — Though the chatter and patter of little children are sadly departing from the White House, there will soon be the new sounds of rapid-fire teen talk and the latest hit tunes.

For President Johnson's teen-age daughters, Lynda Bird and Lucy Baines, are moving in, with their record players, portable TV sets, stuffed dogs, cats, and donkeys, and Lucy's pet beagle puppies, "him" and "her."

Lucy, 16, has already supplied the White House switchboard with a long list of her friends, so she can maintain the telephone contacts so vital to teen-age communication.

Lynda, 19, will remain in a dormitory at the University of Texas at least until the end of this term. But a room will be awaiting her in the White House, complete with the personal bulletin board which she likes to keep cluttered with clippings and mementos.

Next summer, Lynda may have a White House wedding, though the date hasn't been set. She is engaged to Ensign Bernard Rosenbach, an Annapolis graduate, who lives in Comfort, Tex., 50 miles from the LBJ ranch.

Both girls are as breathless and beguiling as the Kennedy children were frisky and frolicsome.

Lynda has her father's persuasiveness, her mother's gentleness. She is quick with a quip, but is never smart alecky. She loves to ride, swim, dance, bowl. Like most girls, she is pound-conscious.

☆ ☆ ☆

Lucy is more pensive and thoughtful. She is sweetly tender, lavishes affection on people and pets. Though she is now limited to her two little beagles, she has owned ducks, chickens, even white mice. When a pet becomes sick, Lucy makes bedside visits to the animal hospital.

The President, who likes to play the stern father but has a hard time putting on a convincing performance, has said of his daughters: "Lynda is so smart that she'll always be able to take care of herself. Lucy is so appealing and feminine that there'll always be some man around to take care of her."

Both daughters cuddle and coddle the President in the time-tested manner of pretty girls who know how to handle their fathers. They also take their problems to him for adult discussion, even consult him about their boy friends.

It pleases him to be gruff and grumpy about such matters, but the First Lady confides that he is secretly flattered.

Both girls take an absorbing interest in their father's career. It is typical of them that Lucy was broken-hearted after he lost the presidential nomination to John Kennedy in 1960, but Lynda took the defeat more philosophically.

Study Johnson And The City Vote

WASHINGTON — Democrats are keenly aware that they have little time to build their new President into a champion of the consumers packed into the great cities of states with big electoral votes.

An impulsive suggestion by Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman that President Johnson is an "agrarian populist" seems over-hasty. True agrarians now constitute only about 15 percent of the total population and daily grow fewer.

Secretary Freeman insists Populism has lost its sting, and certainly its demands for a graduated income tax, popular election of U.S. senators and the eight-hour working day seem now far short of revolutionary. Still it had an easy-money flavor unlikely to appeal to Lyndon Johnson.

In his classic "Book About American History," George Stimpson writes that with the nomination of William Jennings Bryan in 1896, "Democrats stole most of the thunder of the Populists." The Bryan parallel is not alluring nor does the famous populist champion, sockless Jerry Simpson of Kansas, seem to fit the Affluent Society.

☆ ☆ ☆

Yet the election next year is uniquely wide open in that the voters will be choosing between men who are not really well known to masses of them and have relatively little time to make themselves so. These masses cannot be accurately surveyed until the last few months before election, if then. Should they get the notion that they are being treated as statistics, not people, they are also apt to surprise their so-called betters.

The President has the incumbency advantage, a great one, but it could hurt if foreign affairs take a bad turn. He cannot count too much on that initial asset.

That he realizes the situation is apparent. He has begun by shifting the emphasis of his interests, as he could not do when he was a senator from Texas and the majority leader.

The labor and Negro leaders are streaming in. The Kennedy forces — cabinet, staff advisors — are the object of that sweet persuasion so familiar to senators.

All this is directed toward breaking out of the old and more parochial mold. Johnson discovered to his immense chagrin in 1959 and 1960 that despite all the praise lavished on his conduct of congressional business, the politicians did not believe he was electable at the head of the ticket. Some of his best friends had to tell him, but he was hard to convince.

Three years with President Kennedy have helped; 1964 should do more. But it has been a long time since Americans chose a President because he was so efficient. In 1928 former President Hoover was praised for that quality, but he also had a great humanitarian label earned in the food administration which ministered to Europe's World War I victims. A depression took it from him, and he was done for after one term.

Bill Plourd of the Nance County Journal believes that if the state figures to have registration plates last through three years, they should be made of something a little more substantial.

"Some of the plates now in use are frizzled up like strips of crisp-fried bacon. Farmers have to drive their vehicles on rough ground sometimes, and loose pebbles in freshly-spread gravel topping could pretty nearly dent a stove lid. What they do to the present issue of fragile plates is a caution to the woodpeckers."

Norris Alfred, Polk Progress pilot, thinks perhaps our society is reaching new lows in decadence. He was telling of parking lot troubles experienced by a relative residing in Chicago. He had received a letter stating that he would be fined if he left tempting articles in sight within his locked car. There had been a rash of break-ins of locked cars on the lot.

"Nothing was said about trying to catch the thieves. Lead us not into temptation . . . and deliver us from the tempters."

When Wayne Thompson takes his wife, Leona, out for dinner, he does it up in style. However, the Bruning Banner editor is just a little irked at TV and its effects on people's outlook these days.

His wife had been after him for some time to take her to a fancy eating place with a floor show, such as some of the television shows depict. He thought it all sounded rather expensive, until one day he found "the perfect place." When he told his wife that a floor show was included, she cracked out her glad rags with great enthusiasm and they were off.

They entered through a fancy entrance with a canopy over the door. The entrance was tiled and they went through a shining glass door into the cafe. Here they ordered the best steaks available and Editor Thompson quoted the top price at $1.10. And they had a perfect view of the whole program. But somehow, as the show began and the sound of noisy bowling balls going down the alleys reached the diners' ears, he could detect "that Leona wasn't taking too kindly to the place I'd picked."

He enjoyed it, though. He described it as "some floor show, all right. We saw strikes and gutter balls and splits. Some of the slacks were so tight, I thought we'd see more splits than we did . . . After we got home, we had a little floor show of our own. It convinced me that the next time I pick an eating place, maybe I

Columnist Jan Buffum of the Crete News is of the opinion that one hardly stands a chance these days, as exemplified by an auction sale of household goods. You sit there and admire a piece of furniture, she says, and vow to bid on it . . . and before you know it, someone else has bought it right out from under your nose. "And while standing in front of a piece of junk, you happen to sneeze—and you've bought it!"

The Clipper says that Shelton's Howard Reeder — who in the past has been run over by a load of hay, had a grain auger shave his head and suffered broken bones in his face when a car he was underneath dropped on him — is in the news again. In the process of wrecking an old building, a large section of wall with two by four and all its weather boarding fell on him.

Just in casual observation we would offer that it might be well for Mr. Reeder to start being just a teensy-weensy bit more careful.

On Giving Thanks

Bennet, Neb.

Some years ago a fine elderly gentleman who printed the two-page town paper wrote an editorial for Thanksgiving. "Today," he said, "Thanksgiving has become a filling of 'tanks' instead of a giving of thanks." And in those days we knew nothing of the filling of gas tanks.

Now, one-half century later, people haven't changed much. In line with the movement to put "Christ" back into "Christmas," we ought to put "thanks" back into "Thanksgiving."

But, alas, Thanksgiving is a busy day. The womenfolk in spotless bright colored aprons are bustling about like high priestesses of old before a silver altar, whose ascending fragrance happens to be not sanctuary incense but herbs and spices. In the center of it all stands the huge bronze turkey being adorned or adored.

Meanwhile, in the TV room, the menfolk are pontificating on punts and passes, tackles and touchdowns, with the innocent wisdom that is born of little knowledge and much enthusiasm. Thus it comes to pass that the joy of the day is about equally divided between the pigskin on the gridiron and the turkey in the oven.

Now, feasting is fine and football is grand, but if this is all that Thanksgiving means, couldn't it just as well be Columbus Day or even Sadie Hawkins Day, whatever that is?

The early Christians, our forefathers, started the day by marching to church. How many of us follow?

If we can't think of anything else to be thankful for, why not thank Him that He made us human beings instead of humming birds or heads of cabbage, which as Creator He easily could have.

From Abroad

Hamburg, Germany

My eyes refused to believe the big headline on a black-rimmed paper which put the news in two words: "Kennedy Murdered!" I cannot imagine two words of more world-shaking effect, except "atomic war." If his plane had crashed or his car turned over, it would have been tragic enough, but who on earth could have the absurd idea of killing that man? I think that was the general feeling over here. And perhaps we shall never know. But whatever the background, God allowed the bullet to hit him, the young man, while the great old men live to retire in peace. Man cannot understand why. But the world would have needed Mr. Kennedy some more years.

Another astonishing and overwhelming thing was the sincere feeling of mourning that spread over countries and continents. We never realized, up to that moment, how much we all liked him. It was as though we had known him personally and had lost a friend.

Our papers filled lots of pages with the tragic event in these past days. On November 23, Saturday, our Hamburger Abendblatt apologized for showing its customary weekend comic page, because that page had already been printed before the news arrived and could not be taken off the issue. Some theaters dropped their curtains on Friday night, and it is said that even night bars and the great fun fair called Hamburger Dom switched off gay music. On Monday night, people gathered for a memorial meeting before the Town Hall which ended in a torch procession to the U.S. Consulate General (Hamburg's White House). A bridge here has been renamed "Kennedy Bridge" and is perhaps Hamburg's most beautiful bridge. Similar things were done in other German towns, above all in Berlin. It is reported that even in communist countries, people were shaken by the news . . .

Hurting Ourselves

Lincoln, Neb.

I believe that our fear of scrap's being returned to us as Jap bombs, as we once experienced it, is causing us more misery than the other alternative.

We of all the highly developed countries outside of Canada have the highest unemployment rate. This is partly due to an extreme tax structure which siphons into government bureaucracy capital investment.

But, remembering the Japanese, we are not cultivating potential markets for our exports. Every car or tool we export means another can be made for use here. China and Russia would buy. Our technology is far enough advanced to stay in the lead even though we trade with them. Then, too, when "have-not" countries become "have" countries, they lose some of their desire for radical change.

I believe we are doing ourselves a disservice by not trading with China, Russia or even Cuba.

POSTCARD by Stan Kaplan

I don't see much music coming up on this anniversary of America and World War II. If there is one branch of military we are not prepared for it is music.

We have missiles and anti-missiles. Bombs to blow your head off. cannons to shoot you out of. No music. No rhythm.

If you gotta go, it is pretty dreary to go on such a blue note.

In the parades of my youth, they swung along to stirring tunes. "Over There." "Goodbye Broadway, Hello France." "Oh, How I Hate To Get Up In The Morning." "Oui, Oui, Marie."

After that, military music went flat as an off-key disc jockey.

☆ ☆ ☆

Here it is 22 years after Pearl Harbor. And not a song that has held up. That is a meager record. While senators are talking preparedness, a smart musical senator could investigate how we are fixed for music.

The first song that came out after Pearl Harbor was "Praise the Lord and Pass the Ammunition." It did not last long and never went over with the troops.

The plain fact is we had to fall back on our allies for music.

The most popular tunes came from overseas.

"Waltzing Matilda" and "Bless Them All" and "I've Got Sixpence" and "Roll Me Over In The Clover."

The English contributed one whose name I do not know:

"I'd rather 'ang around
"Picadilly Underground
"And live off the earnin's of a 'igh born lydie . . ."

This shows the dreadful state of unpreparedness. And what we probably need is a rousing album of "Music to Shoot Missiles By."

☆ ☆ ☆

The music offered to the young gentlemen I knew came mainly from Tokyo Rose who had a weakness for the Boston Pops Orchestra. It was pretty scratchy. The records at Radio Tokyo took quite a beating.

☆ ☆ ☆

We used to get some music from the Army radio stations that went under the name of "The Mosquito Network."

The disc jockey had his eye on the future. He did not figure to make a 30-year man in the Army. And he lavished his big soulful voice on commercials. He had a Deep South hush puppy accent:

"Now, boy, take you Atabrine. Y'ore a big boy now."

I think he would have liked to have made it a singing commercial. He put a lot of sell into Atabrine. They gave the stuff away.

It was supposed to keep you from having malaria. And the opposition dropped leaflets saying it would have a lasting and poor effect on your future.

It drove the disc jockey wild:

"Take yore Atabrine," he said. "Them fellers don't know nothin."

Then he would play, "Three Itty Fitties in a Itty Bitty Poo."

He just about drove us wild. That was one thing we weren't prepared for.

What's A 'First Unit'?

. . . DEFINITION KEY TO KSC BUILDING PLAN

The attorney general's opinion of what constitutes a "first unit" of a building will be the factor determining how Kearney State College proceeds with plans to build a science building.

The 1963 Legislature appropriated $500,000 to the college to build the "first unit" of a science building, which college officials estimate will ultimately cost $1.9 million.

Dr. Milton Hassel, Kearney College president, said if the school is allowed to build the "shell" of the total building desired, it will be much more economical in the long run than building one self-contained small structure now which would have to have additions made to it later.

Accordingly, the State Normal Board Thursday authorized the college to proceed with plans to build the "shell" of the proposed building, provided Atty. Gen. Clarence Meyer says it is all right.

Dr. Hassel and Board Member Carl Spelts of Kearney said they had discussed the matter with the Legislature's Budget Committee at a recent meeting, and had asked what the intent of the committee was when it specified the appropriation for the "first unit."

Both stated that the committee was "not able to tell us" what its intent was, and that it felt it had no jurisdiction now to determine what the college should do.

Hassel said the matter also was discussed with Gov. Frank Morrison, who said he believed the college should base its building plan on what is needed 10 years in the future.

Spelts said the governor favors the "shell" approach, and that in his (Spelts') opinion, the Budget Committee also favors it.

He said some committee members said they believe the 1965 Legislature "has an obligation" to appropriate funds to complete the building.

Not Afraid Of Dentist's Drill

Loerrach, Germany (AP)— A man in a dentist's chair suddenly jumped up, hurled himself through the window and ran off after landing unhurt two floors below.

It wasn't the dentist's drill that scared him off. He was a prisoner from the town jail and made his escape while a guard sat outside in the waiting room.

Skarda Seeking His Third Term

State Sen. William Skarda Jr., an Omaha public relations man, Thursday filed with the secretary of state for re-election to the Legislature from the 7th District. District.

Skarda will be seeking his third term.

Quigley, Normal Board Find Accord

State Fiscal Analyst John Quigley and Normal Board members Thursday reached agreement on how Quigley will obtain information from state college administrators.

Recently, when Quigley wrote the four colleges and requested data upon the budget committee's request, the board advised him to work exclusively through Freeman Decker, Normal Board coordinator.

This touched off an exchange of letters.

To Decker First

Thursday, Quigley informed the board in most cases where he was seeking information he would go first to Decker. He added that if Decker does not have the material and if timing is a factor, he will go directly to source documents on the campuses.

Earlier, Quigley asked Board President Henry Freed of Chadron: "Are you telling me I can't go to the colleges and I can't get what I want?"

Freed replied: "That's right."

Quigley said he could not accept that sort of arrangement because he could not be "sure the Legislature's concern to get accurate, uncensored responses would be served."

Public Information

Board member Bernard Spencer of Nebraska City noted the colleges' records are a matter of public information.

He said what concerned the board was the possibility of different interpretations of the same facts or questions.

Quigley said in questions of policy he recognizes the preeminence of the board and its exclusive jurisdiction.

But he said that on factual matters dealing with administrative history he could see no reason "why you fear this will prove embarrassing or an infringement of the board."

Quigley said he had no difficulty when he went directly to the University of Nebraska hospital and the experiment stations for checks for pertinent information.

Runaways Find State Too Cold; They'll Go Home

Two 17-year-old runaway boys from Denver, Colo., got cold feet Wednesday night and told Lincoln police they wanted to go home.

The two were stopped by police and questioned. The boys, dressed in lighweight jackets, told police they had hopped a freight to get to Lincoln but wanted to return to Denver. "We thought it was warm here in Nebraska," they said.

The shivering pair was lodged in jail for the night.

Thursday morning police said the boys were comfortably warm awaiting the arrival of their parents.

Johnson Says Balance Of Power Has Improved; Plans To Keep It That Way

Washington (AP) — President Johnson was reported on high authority Thursday night to have told State Department officials that the international balance of power has improved basically in the last three years and that "I have not become President to give away this advantage."

To an assemblage of top-level officials who carry out foreign policy, and to the National Security Council, which is concerned with military policy, the President was reported to have said that the United States must be strong, and that is also must be "just, temperate and patient."

The new chief executive met for the first time Thursday with the NSC, plus other executives in the security field brought in for this occasion. This was at the White House.

800 Officers

Then he motored to the State Department to address about 800 senior officers, from Secretary Dean Rusk on down the line, in the departmental auditorium.

Johnson was described as having said that half the explanation for a sense of hope that was developing in the last months of the late President John F. Kennedy's administration lies in a basic improvement in the balance of power.

The appearance at the State Department came toward the close of another long, arduous day for the new chief executive, a day on which he tried his hand at person-to-person contact in an effort to prod Congress into swifter action on a tax cut and on civil rights legislation.

Talks Taxes

Johnson talked taxes at an unannounced luncheon at the White House with Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee. He talked civil rights with House Republican leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana at breakfast time.

There were no immediate, preceptible results, and the prospect remained that action on both key measures would be deferred, at least until next month.

But Byrd did schedule closed sessions of his committee, starting Wednesday, to work over the $11-billion tax-cut bill already passed by the House. He predicted there would be some decisions on some parts of it this year and on the rest of it in January.

Satisfactory

"The President," Byrd said on his return to the Capitol, "indicated that, in view of the conditions existing, this was satisfactory to him, although he would have preferred earlier action."

In his talk at the State Department, Johnson mentioned two specific issues.

One was the war in South Viet Nam, where he noted that some 18,000 Americans still are involved. He was quoted as saying:

Must Ask

"We should, all of us, let no day go by without asking whether we are doing everything we can to win the struggle there."

Secondly, he was reported to have said that this country should do whatever more it can to combat Communist subversion in this hemisphere.

The President also got an invitation to go back to Dallas, Tex., where John F. Kennedy was assassinated and Johnson took the presidential oath of office on Nov. 22.

Legion Chief

The invitation came from the national commander of the American Legion, Daniel F. Foley, who invited Johnson to be the keynote speaker at the Legion convention in Dallas next September. Foley told newsmen they would have to ask Johnson whether he would accept. But he said that "we're very hopeful."

The new President had a reminder of his days in the Senate when he received members of the United States Capitol Historical Society Thursday and a special, red leather bound copy of a new book, "We, The People, The Story of The United States Capitol."

A delegation of 14, headed by Rep. Fred Schwengel, R-Iowa, made the presentation.

Important Work

Johnson accepted it as an important work on the legislative branch, comparable to the White House guidebook which Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy sponsored. And with reference to the legislative branch, Johnson said at the ceremony in the Cabinet Room:

"I've given it my life for 32 years and I'm not sure I'll ever be as happy again. I never served with a man in either branch that I didn't think came there on a platform of doing what he thought was right."

On another busy day—they all have been busy — Johnson also:

—Let it be known through his press secretary, Pierre Salinger, that he and speaker of the House John W. McCormack have agreed on the process by which the speaker will take over the responsibilities of the president should Johnson suffer a disability that prevents him from handling them.

Budget Talks

—Conferred with the top men in the Budget Bureau and Civil Service Commission on the budget he must submit to Congress next month for the 1965 fiscal year starting next July 1. Salinger said this centered on "holding the line" on government personnel.

Retirement System Question Will Go To Attorney General

By BETTY PERSON
Star Staff Writer

The Nebraska attorney general will be asked to rule on the question of whether Nebraska's teachers colleges can establish their own retirement system, or will have to come under the newly authorized state employes retirement system.

State Normal Board Coordinator Dr. F. B. Decker advised the board Thursday that a "just discovered" technicality in the law (LB-512) creating the state employes retirement system may jeopardize establishment of the colleges' own system as authorized by the 1963 Legislature.

The problem revolves around wording in LB512 which states that persons contributing to the School Retirement System of Nebraska (as teachers college employes now do) are excluded from participation in the state employes retirement system.

If the teachers colleges establish their own system as authorized by the Legislature, they would no longer contribute to the School Retirement System, and would therefore not be excluded from the state employes retirement system.

Two members of the State Employes Retirement Board have told him they would "challenge" the right of the teachers colleges to stay out of the new state system, Decker stated.

He added that he has also been told there is a strong possibility that the constitutionality of LB512 will be challenged in the courts in the near future.

After considerable discussion, the board voted to go ahead with plans to initiate its own retirement system authorized by the Legislature and to make it operative March 1 if the attorney general rules it can be established.

In an effort to determine from what source the constitutionality of the new state retirement system might be challenged, The Star was told Thursday that considerable concern about the law has come from the Nebraska National Guard.

Welch Says No

Adjutant General Lyle A. Welch emphatically declared, however, that the National Guard as such was "absolutely not going to test the constitutionality" of the new retirement system.

Welch said that if any civilian employe of the Guard should decide on his own to test the bill's equity, then certainly he could not, and should not, be precluded from exercising his constitutional rights, but that he would do so without backing of the Guard as such.

The adjutant general said the Guard has some technical problems concerning some of its employes' eligibility under the bill, but that every possible effort is being made to iron out these difficulties.

The problems revolve around those Guard employes who are paid strictly from federal funds, but Welch said an attorney general's opinion received Thursday states that for purposes of the retirement system they can be considered state employes because the federal funds are administered solely by the adjutant general.

Welch said a meeting in Washington is scheduled Dec. 18 to determine whether it will be possible for the governor and secretary of defense to negotiate a contract which would make is possible for the federal government to pay the employer's share into the state retirement fund for these employes.

DECKER, COLLEGE HEADS TO DISCUSS APPROPRIATIONS

Presidents of the four state colleges will meet in Lincoln Jan. 8 with State Normal Board Coordinator Dr. Freeman B. Decker to discuss allocation of appropriations among the four schools for the 1964-65 fiscal year.

Decker told the college presidents at a meeting Thursday afternoon he is making a modification in the distribution formula used for the first fiscal year.

He described the modification "comparatively minor one," but said he wanted to review it with the college officers prior to its submission for approval to the State Normal Board at its January meeting.

Welcome

The presidents indicated they would welcome a frank discussion on the whole distribution formula which has resulted in some sharp disagreements among the four colleges.

Wayne State College President William Brandenburg expressed the hope that something can be developed at the January meeting, or else "we will be prolonging a fight that's going to become more intense and more acrimonious as time goes on."

On another matter the presidents had an informal discussion, but took no action, on a suggestion by Chadron State College President Clark Elkins that the colleges register some disagreement with proposed rules and regulations on teacher certification.

Hearing Scheduled

The State Board of Education is going to hold a public hearing in Lincoln Dec. 17 on the proposed rules which are scheduled to go into effect Jan. 1.

The presidents are concerned over the proposal that successful teaching experience will enable 10-year renewals of teaching certificates, rather than the present statutory requirement for earning additional college credits.

It was suggested at one point that Dr. Decker should appear at the hearing to place it on the record that the colleges were opposed to parts of the proposed new rules, but no action was taken on it.

Decker said he would do so if that was their wish, but he added that he did not share their opposition.

Apple Pie Lovers--Take Note

Nothing quite takes the place of a wonderful apple pie—unless it is an Apple Nutmeg Puff Pie. Serve it once, and it will be a 'must' on your family's request list.

THE PUFFS:

1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup lard
⅔ cup milk about
½ cup sugar
1½ teaspoons nutmeg
Melted butter

THE PIE:

4 cups canned apple sauce
½ cup sugar
2 tablespoons grated orange rind
¼ cup orange juice
2 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca

Combine flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in lard with pastry blender. Add enough milk to make a soft dough. Form into 16 small balls. Combine sugar and nutmeg. Roll puffs in melted butter; then in sugar mixture. Set aside.

Combine apple sauce, ½ cup sugar, orange rind and juice. Stir in tapioca. Pour into 9 inch pie plate. Place nutmeg puffs around edge and plate and in center. Bake in hot oven, 400 degrees, 25 to 30 minutes or until puffs are brown. Serve warm or cold, with or without light cream. Makes 6-8 servings.

Fit For Kings

This recipe will be in your 'favorites' file for a long, long time—orange-prune bars are that good. They are wonderful for a coffee.

COOKIE CRUST

1 teaspoon orange peel
2 teaspoons water
½ cup light brown sugar, firmly packed
1 cup flour
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup butter or margarine

PRUNE FILLING

1¼ cup chopped cooked prunes (½ lb. uncooked(
1/3 cup honey
3 tablespoons orange juice
1 tablespoon liquid from prunes
- tablespoon cornstarch
1 teaspoon orange peel
½ cup chopped pecans

1 teaspoon orange peel
½ cup chopped pecans

TOPPING

2 eggs
¼ teaspoon orange peel
1 can (3-½ oz.) flaked coconut.

Combine the orange peel and water in bottom of mixing bowl. Let stand a few minutes until peel absorbs water. Add brown sugar, flour, and salt. With a blender, cut in the butter until all is a mixture of fine crumbs. Turn into a 9 x 9-inch square baking pan. With finger tips, pat into an even layer. Bake in a 375 degree oven 10 to 12 minutes. Let cool 15 minutes. Meanwhile combine in a saucepan the cooked prunes, honey, orange juice, prune juice, cornstarch, and orange peel. Bring to a boil; cook 1 or 2 minutes, stirring constantly. Add pecans. Spoon over baked crust. Spread in a layer.

Beat eggs until light and fluffy. Add orange peel and coconut. Spoon in a layer over top of prunes. Bake in a 375 degree oven 25 to 35 minutes. Cut into bars while still warm. Remove to cake rack to cool. Makes 20 bars.

SOUR CREAM FUDGE

2 cups sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup sour cream
2 tablespoons butter
½ cup chopped nuts (optional)

Butter cooking vessel to prevent crystalizing. Mix sugar and sour cream. Cook, stirring occasionally over medium heat to soft ball stage (240 degrees). Add butter. Christmas Sandwich Fun

Serve "Christmas Tree" sandwiches that can be sliced from one frosted "loaf" of bread and celebrate the holidays festively and flavorfully! They're easy to do — simply make sandwiches of triangles of bread and spicy fillings of deviled ham with cream cheese and marmalade or chopped raisins and nuts. Stand the sandwiches on end, together, and frost with a frothy-white combination of cottage and cream cheeses. Orange peel "stars" stud the top and show where the sandwiches should be sliced. Don't forget, these sandwiches can be made ahead, put together, frosted and refrigerated — to be served at the last moment in all their glistening glory!

"CHRISTMAS TREE" SANDWICHES
(2 variations)

(1) 20 slices white bread
1 4½-oz. can deviled ham
1 3-oz. pkg. cream cheese, softened
2 tablespoons orange marmalade
1 8-oz. pkg. cream cheese, softened
(2) 20 slices dark bread
2 4½-oz. cans deviled ham
4 tablespoons chopped raisins
4 tablespoons chopped nuts
1 cup cottage cheese
1 tablespoon milk
Green vegetable coloring
Wide strip of orange peel
1 8-oz. pkg. cream cheese, softened
1 cup cottage cheese
1 tablespoon milk
Wide strip of orange peel

Variation 1: To cut out "tree" shape (triangle) start at top center of break slice, cut down to right corner of slice, then down to left corner. Trim remaining crust; repeat to make 20 "trees". Combine deviled ham, cream cheese and marmalade. Spread half the slices with deviled ham mixture, top with remaining slices. To form loaf, stand sandwiches upright on a platter. Chill. Combine cheese, milk and 4 drops coloring. Cut out 10 stars from orange peel. Frost loaf with cheese mixture. Place "stars" on center top of each sandwich. At serving time, cut between stars to separate sandwiches. Serves 10.

Variation 2: Proceed as above, use dark bread instead of white: Combine deviled ham, raisins and nuts for filling; and omit green coloring from the cheese frosting.

9-inch baked pie shell
Meringue

Combine ½ cup of the sugar, cornstarch, salt and cold water in the top of a doube boiler. Mix well. Stir in boiling water. Cook over rapidly boiling water 5 minutes or until thick, stirring constantly. Cover and continue cooking over boiling water 8 minutes or until very thick, stirring occasionally. Add butter or margarine. Beat egg yolks lightly and blend with remaining ½ cup sugar to which add a little of the hot mixture. Then stir into the remaining hot mixture. Cook uncovered over hot water (not boiling) 10 minutes or until very thick, stirring frequently. Gradually stir in lemon juice and rind. Remove from heat. Cool. Add pure vanilla extract and turn into a baked 9-inch pie shell. Top as desired with Meringue. Bake in a preheated slow oven (300 degrees) 20 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool before serving. YIELD: 6 servings.

MERINGUE

3 egg whites
1 teaspoon cold water
¼ cup sugar
½ teaspoon pure vanilla extract, optional

Combine egg whites and water and beat until they stand in soft peaks. Gradually beat in sugar and pure vanilla extract, if used. Beat until meringue stands in very stiff peaks.

Here Is The Perfect Fill-In

Here's a side dish that works wonders as a "fill-in" with several different kinds of meals, or it can substitute as the main dish. Spoon licking good, it converts neat slices of left over turkey, beef or pork into a royal meal. To serve this way, bake in individual casseroles as shown.

HAM-CORN PUDDING
(Servings—4)

2 eggs, beaten
1 (16-ounce) can whole kernel corn, drained
1 (8-ounce) can tomato sauce
1 cup soft bread crumbs
2 Tablespoons pure vegetable oil
2 Tablespoons flour
2 Tablespoons minced onion
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ cup milk
1 (4½ ounce) can deviled ham

Combine eggs, corn, tomato sauce and bread crumbs. Heat pure vegetable oil and stir in flour, onion, and pepper. Gradually add milk and stir until thickened. Add deviled ham. Combine corn mixture with milk mixture. Turn into greased 1-quart casserole. Bake at 350 F. for 1 hour.

A Two-Part Delight

Because Quiche Lorraine is really prepared in two parts, you can make the pie crust ahead, using a mix if you wish.

TOMATO QUICHE LORRAINE
(Servings—6)

1 cup all purpose flour
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ cup pure vegetable oil
2 tablespoons milk
8 slices bacon, diced and fried crisp
¼ cup finely chopped onion
10 ounces Swiss cheese, shredded
4 eggs, beaten
1 (8-ounce) can tomato sauce
½ cup milk
1 tablespoon flour
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon dry mustard

Mix flour and salt. Add pure vegetable oil and milk to flour and stir to mix. Press into smooth ball. Place between 2 sheets of waxed paper. Roll gently to edge of paper. Peel off top paper and place pastry, paper side up, in a 9-inch pie plate. Remove paper. Fit pastry into plate and flute edge.

Arrange bacon, onion and cheese in pastry shell. Beat remaining ingredients together and pour over cheese. Bake at 325 degrees F. for 50 minutes or until set in center.

Many shavers cost less than a REMINGTON® 25.
Then why do more men buy REMINGTON?

Every REMINGTON® shaver has 348 cutting edges. Made of surgical high-carbon steel, they're sharper, longer lasting than stainless steel. Honed on an angle, they slice whiskers off instead of "ploughing" them up.

This is the shaving head. Big—it cuts a big swath. Note the slots. 756 to be exact. Since the whiskers go through the slots to the cutters, the more slots, the faster the shave.

These are REMINGTON Roller Combs. They're right on top of the shaver head. Adjust to every type of skin and beard. They roll skin down, pop whiskers up into the cutters. Cut them off cleanly, comfortably.

More REMINGTON Shavers have been made and sold (over 46,000,000) than any other make. Reason enough to pay a little more? Yes.

A Swing Of Points

TEST YOUR PLAY

1. You are declarer with the West hand at Six Clubs. North leads the king of diamonds. How would you play the hand?

	♠ K 10 4 2 ♥ A 6 5 3 ♦ — ♣ K Q 10 7 3
♠ A Q 5 ♥ K 10 4 2 ♦ J ♣ A J 9 5 2	N W E S

2. You are declarer with the West hand at Four Hearts, North having overcalled your opening heart bid with a spade. North leads the jack of diamonds on which South plays the seven. How would you play the hand?

	♠ K 2 ♥ A J 9 7 3 ♦ A K 8 3 ♣ 5 4
♠ 10 3 ♥ K Q 10 5 4 ♦ 5 4 2 ♣ A J 6	N W E S

1. With proper play, the contract cannot be defeated regardless of how the opponents' cards are divided. Ruff the king of diamonds and draw two (or three) rounds of trumps. Then cash the ace of hearts and lead a heart towards dummy. If North follows low, play the ten, thus assuring the contract. If North plays the jack or queen instead, you win with the king and are again sure of not losing more than one heart trick.

If North does not follow to the first or second heart lead, the slam is still sure to make, even though there appear to be two heart losers. Cash the A-Q of spades and lead the five from dummy.

First let's suppose that South shows out. Win with the king and return the ten, discarding a heart from dummy. North wins with the jack, but, whatever he returns, you discard the last heart from dummy as you ruff the return in your hand. All you lose is a spade trick.

Second, let's suppose that South follows low on the five of spades lead. Finesse the ten. If it wins, you have twelve tricks; if it loses, you also have twelve tricks because North must return a diamond, which you ruff after discarding a heart from dummy. You then cash the king of spades, discarding the other heart from dummy.

2. Here the contract is not certain to make, but still there is a best way of playing the hand. The key play is to duck the jack of diamonds, hoping to find the suit divided 3-3. In that case you could later, after drawing trumps and cashing the A-K of diamonds, discard a spade from dummy on the eight of diamonds.

It is important to provide against the possibility that North has some such hand as: ♠ A Q 9 7 4 ♥ 6 2 ♦ J 10 6 ♣ K 9 2. If you were to win the opening diamond lead, there would then be no way of preventing South from later taking the lead and making the killing spade return.

Winter Bride-Elect

Announcement has been made of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Lana Jean Norris to James Guy Morgan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Morgan of Bayard, by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rex C. Norris of McCook.

The wedding will be an event of Sunday, Dec. 22, and the service will be solemnized at Memorial Methodist Church in McCook.

Miss Norris, who resides in Lincoln and is a member of the Nehawka High School faculty, is a June graduate of the University of Nebraska. She is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma and of Pi Lambda Theta honorary.

Her fiance is a student at the University of Nebraska College of Dentistry and is a member of Delta Tau Delta fraternity and Delta Sigma Delta dental fraternity.

Around The Town

We've been waiting for the green light on some very exciting news about a forthcoming wedding—We hear that it won't be too long before we can talk about it. We also have an exceedingly interesting engagement which involves a former Nebraska coed, and which we shall be announcing between now and the holidays—So much for the future.

The present also includes news of a bride-elect — the popular Miss Barbara Miller who has chosen Saturday, Dec. 28 for her marriage to Tracy Donovan. Miss Miller has been deluged with prenuptial courtesies and there are many, many more to come.

* * *

Next Sunday, for instance, Miss Miller and Mr. Donovan will share honors when Dr. and Mrs. Glenn T. Warren entertain at brunch at Hotel Cornhusker. The guest list will include only the members of the families.

The Sunday calendar also includes an afternoon party at which Miss Miller and another soon-to-be bride, Miss Judy Schorr, will be honored. The courtesy hostess is Miss Ginny Pansing who has invited her guests for 2 o'clock, and who has planned a Christmas decorations and tree-trimmings shower for both of the brides-elect.

Miss Schorr, as you doubtless know, is the fiancee of William H. Lewis.

* * *

Another family affair will be the dinner for which Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Walt will be host and hostess at their home next Wednesday evening.

* * *

On Saturday, Dec. 14, Miss Miller will be complimented by Mrs. E. R. Hinrichs and Mrs. Robert L. Hinrichs who have invited guests for a 10:30 o'clock coffee to be held at the home of Mrs. E. R. Hinrichs. The bride-elect will be presented with a stainless steel shower.

* * *

The following day, Sunday, Dec. 15, Miss Miller and her fiance will again share honors when Dr. and Mrs. Harold Morgan and Mr. and Mrs. A. Q. Schimmel are brunch hosts and hostesses at Hotel Cornhusker. Places will be arranged for members of the families.

* * *

No better time than now to catch up on two recent parties for Miss Miller. One of these was the 1 o'clock luncheon and one-gift shower for which Mrs. Robert Garlinghouse was hostess at her home. The group of guests included the members of a sewing club to which Mrs. T. A. Donovan, mother of the potential bridegroom, belongs.

The second courtesy also was a luncheon for which Mrs. Fred Aiken was hostess at her home. The bride-elect was presented with a shower of gifts for the bridegroom.

* * *

At this moment we're turning our attention to a very new member of the Lincoln General Hospital nursery set. Her name is Miss Elizabeth Ann Lewis, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Veldon Lewis, Jr., and she arrived on Thursday, Dec. 5. The young lady's maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Veldon Lewis of Hesperia, Calif., formerly of Fremont. The baby also has an older sister—three year-old Sally Lewis.

Dear Abby

I Wouldn't Play

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Ten months ago I started taking piano lessons. I am 41. A few days ago my piano teacher handed me a copy of THE BLUE DANUBE WALTZ and said that was to be my recital piece. I protested, but she refused to take me seriously. I told her I'd let her know. What I want to know is, am I obligated to play in her recital?

Just what is the purpose of a recital? For whose benefit is it? The pupils' or the teacher's? I never expect to play publicly, so why should I play in a recital to "gain confidence"? I am her only adult pupil, and can't see myself in a recital with a lot of children. I've attended some of her recitals. She stands in the wings and counts. What would YOU tell her, Abby?

THINKING IT OVER

DEAR THINKING: I'd tell her not to count on me.

Suburbia's In A Holiday Mood

MEADOW LANE

There just seems to be no end to the everyday tasks that must be done before the holiday season. Take for instance the many evenings that must be spent addressing Christmas cards — a never ending process.

Think how easy it would be to just pick up the phone and wish everyone a Merry Christmas — but how expensive. And what would we have done if they hadn't invented New Year's greeting cards which certainly come in handy when you forget someone on your Christmas list.

All of these little tasks add so much to the Christmas holiday season. But before we become too involved with Christmas holiday season there still are some other activities to report.

Meadow Lane residents who spent several days last week in Audubon, Iowa, were Capt. and Mrs. Willard Dix and their children, Ronnie, Mark and Jeffrey.

This busy family were the guests of Mrs. Dix' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Moreland until Saturday when they returned to their home.

A dinner host and hostess on Saturday evening will be Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Kitrell.

Their guests will be Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harrington, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Conway and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kitrell, who will spend the after dinner hours with bridge.

Santa Claus arrived a little early at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Barrett for they are the proud parents of a baby girl, Lisa Carol, who made her debut last month at Bryan Memorial Hospital.

Grandparents of the new arrival are Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Cardwell and Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Barrett, all of Wichita, Kan.

Lisa also has two older sisters, Jill and Lynne.

Spending nine days in Burwell recently were Mrs. W. Richard Baker and her son Paul.

Mrs. Baker and Paul were the houseguests and Thanksgiving guests of Mrs. Baker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Banks.

This traveling twosome returned to the Meadow Lane home on Monday evening.

Sunday dinner guests at the Meadow Lane home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Woolman were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Madigan of Omaha.

Mr. and Mrs. Madigan spent the day with the Woolman family and returned to Omaha that evening.

Motoring to Elm Creek for the Thanksgiving holiday were Meadow Lane residents, Mr. and Mrs. James Evans and their three children, Kay, Louise and Kevin.

Mr. and Mrs. Evans and their family were the guests of Mrs. Evans' brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Max Buterbaugh, and their children, Joe, Judy and Jane.

An out-of-town guest who arrived last evening at the Evans home was Mrs. Evans' aunt, Miss Edna Reed of Harrison.

Miss Harrison will spend several days visiting relatives in the Lincoln area before her return home.

Fairbury was the destination for the members of the Harold Scheetz family who spent two days visiting with Mrs. Scheetz' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Clark.

Mr. and Mrs. Scheetz and the children returned to Lincoln on Saturday.

SKYLINE TERRACE

There seems to be several travel-minded residents in suburbia this week—especially since there was a holiday involved.

Motoring to Beatrice last week were Skyline Terrace residents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Kreuzberg and their two sons, Bruce and Brian.

The Kreuzberg family were the guests of Mr. Kreuzberg's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kreuzberg.

Christmas will no doubt be spent many ways in suburbia—with friends, relatives or just the family.

This morning we have learned that Mrs. Ronald Frank and her daugher, Monica, will be leaving Lincoln on Wednesday to spend Christmas and several months with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Vroup in Monheim, Germany.

Mrs. Frank and her daughter will remain in Monheim until their return to Lincoln sometime in April.

COTNER TERRACE

Cotner Terrace residents in Burr Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Leland Ward, who visited Mrs. Ward's mother, Mrs. E. McGaugh.

Beatrice was the holiday destination of Mr. and Mrs. Don Hubbard, who were guests of Mr. Hubbard's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. John Traubel.

Christmas may be three weeks away but already the festivities have begun—especially in Northeast Heights and the home of Mrs. Ray Anderson.

On Wednesday evening, Mrs. Anderson was hostess to several friends at Christmas bridge party at her home.

Why Grow Old?

Questions And Answers

Josephine Lowman

Q. "Please answer soon. I am desperate. I am in the ninth grade. The girls in my class all wear padded bras. I feel so desperate. I am so embarrassed when changing into my gym clothes. How can I tell if I should wear some pads in my bra? How can I tell my mother? I am average in size and my bust measurement is 33 inches. Please help.

A. For a girl your age your bust measurement seems perfect. All you need is a well-fitted bra. However if you are self-conscious about not having a padded bra, buy one of those planned especially for teen-agers. These are very lightly padded. These are much smarter than the old-fashioned ones. They support the bust properly. Talk to your mother about this.

Q. "Rinses do not do the job for me. I am quite gray. I have my hair dyed. However I would like to know of some liquid product I could use between dye jobs."

A. Even though a rinse may not be adequate when used alone, it is quite satisfactory between dye jobs.

Q. "I am so confused. I'm trying to find out just how to classify my hair, whether it is oily or dry. I think it's oily. It is reddish in the light and dull brown in the shadows. It hangs down in clumps and looks terrible. I also have dandruff, but it is not the flaky kind. What type is my hair and what can I do about it?"

A. All hair has highlights in the light. However from your description I guess that your hair is oily. In this case you should shampoo it often, perhaps every four or five days. You should also use one of the tonics for oily scalp and dandruff. If this condition is severe you would be wise to see a dermatologist.

Q. "I am 5 feet, 2 inches tall and weigh 110 pounds. I am not fat. My problem is my bust. I am embarrassed to wear a sweater and have to wear my clothes sloppily. I don't like a large bust on such a small woman. I will try anything you suggest. My bra size is 34-C, which is actually a little bit small for me."

A. That doesn't sound like an extremely large bust. It may seem so to you because you probably have a small build. You are surely not overweight. The bust is generally difficult to reduce except by a loss of weight. I have given the following exercise before, but I will repeat it because it is the best one I know for this defect.

Stand tall. Raise your arms forward-upward to shoulder height, palms facing the ceiling. Swing your arms down and back hard, as far as you can reach and turn the palms toward the back of the room Return your arms to starting position and continue.

Q. "What can I do for ingrown toenails and what causes them?"

A. Ingrown toenails are often caused by incorrectly fitted shoes. The way you cut your toenails is also important. Do not round them but cut straight across the tops of the nails. If the condition is painful you should see a chiropodist or a pediatrist for expert treatment.

Betrothal Revealed

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Louis Guilliatt are announcing the betrothal of their daughter, Eileen Mary, to Ronald Edward Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Edward Brown.

The wedding will take place in early summer, and the service will be solemnized at St. Matthew's Church, Episcopal.

Plan Yule Parties

A Christmas program including songs by the Everett Junior High School girls' triple trio, and, "A Christmas Story", presented by Mrs. Ralph W. Hill, will highlight the Friday meeting of Deborah Avery Chapter, DAR, following its annual guest-day luncheon, 12:30 o'clock, at the Hotel Cornhusker.

Hostesses will be Mrs. Harley K. Moffitt, Mrs. Tom N. Burke, Mrs. Robert Nelson, Mrs. Dean H. Peterson, Mrs. Ray Scott, Mrs. Elmer E. Refshauge, Mrs. Robert Puelz and Mrs. Thomas Beall.

The Cornhusker Chapter, National Secretaries Association, will meet for its annual Christmas brunch at 12:30 'clock, Sunday, at the Lincoln Country Club.

Was Hostess

The members of the Busy Belles Extension Club met recently at the home of Mrs. Wayne Schroeder.

Mrs. Paul Hudson and Mrs. Don McGinnis presented the lesson, "Food and Science", and plans were made for the annual Christmas luncheon and gift exchange to be held Dec. 12, at the home of Mrs. Don McGinnis.

Engagement Is Announced

The engagement of Miss Marlene Lyons to William B. Sparks, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Sparks, has been announced by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Rolland Lyons of Springfield, Ill.

A graduate of Sacred Heart Academy, Springfield, and Holy Cross Central School of Nursing, South Bend, Ind., Miss Lyons is a member of the nursing staff at St. John's Hospital in Springfield. Mr. Sparks is a graduate of the University of Notre Dame.

Halaby Trip Starts Talk Of Air Thaw

Washington (UPI) — Federal Aviation Administrator Najeeb E. Halaby is going to Russia in what may be the forerunner to a major cold war thaw—a U.S.-Soviet civil air pact.

A brief Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) announcement Thursday said Halaby will leave Sunday on a 10-day trip to London, Berlin, Moscow and Paris. It said the FAA chief plans to exchange "professional views" on civil aviation matters but added:

"He also hopes to discuss arrangements for study of technical problems of an air route between the United States and the Soviet Union should a civil air transport agreement be signed in the future."

An FAA spokesman emphasized that Halaby was not going to Moscow to discuss or negotiate an actual agreement, but merely to set up the machinery for future technical conferences if the need arises.

Nevertheless, there were indications that Halaby's trip may be an important first step toward a pact that would open up a commercial air route between Moscow and New York. Halaby presumably discussed the trip with President Johnson recently.

At one of his last news conferences before he was assassinated, the late President Kennedy expressed the belief that a U.S.-Russian civil air agreement was in the realm of possibility. Johnson himself, soon after taking office, emphasized that he was ready to carry on his predecessor's aims toward improving American-Soviet relations.

An air pact actually was initialed by both countries several years ago but was never consummated because of a sudden worsening in U.S.-Soviet relations. At the same time, Pan American World Airways and Aeroflot—the Russian state-owned airline—also signed a reciprocal pact for a New York-Moscow air route contingent on the two governments agreeing.

Officials believe both pacts could be taken off the shelf and "dusted" with a few modifications to bring them up to date.

The Russians are reported to be readying a new long-range jet capable of flying Moscow-New York nonstop. Aeroflot's present jet, the TU104, is too short-ranged for the trip and the carrier uses prop-jets for its longer flights.

Halaby has had a long-standing invitation to visit Russia.

U.N. APPROVES SPACE PROGRAM

United Nations, N. Y. (AP)—The U. N. General Assembly's Main Political Committee approved by acclamation Thursday a broad program for promoting international cooperation in peaceful uses of outer space, including further exploration of the solar system.

In the same manner the 111-nation committee recommended to the assembly approval of a declaration of legal guidelines for outer space activity.

Both actions were made possible by prior agreement of the United States and the Soviet Union, the two giants in the field of outer space exploration.

A 27-nation resolution outlining the U. N. space program for 1964 expressed belief that international cooperation can be beneficial in furthering exploration of the solar system.

Diplomatic sources said that was as far as the Soviet Union was willing to go at this stage in giving any indirect recognition to the U.S. proposal that the two space powers get together in an effort to send a manned expedition to the moon.

The late President Kennedy made the offer in the General Assembly last Sept. 20 and President Johnson renewed it through his U.N. delegate, Adlai E. Stevenson, last week.

The United States wanted the resolution to urge international cooperation to land a man on the moon "on behalf of all humanity."

This was unacceptable to the Soviet Union despite a plea from Stevenson to the Russians to make a first small step toward cooperating on the moon project. They were understood to have told the United States they wanted to give the matter further study.

Broader Tax Base Won't Solve Education Problem—Governor

Governor Morrison told a group of 25 Union College students Thursday he still is not convinced a broadened tax base will solve Nebraska's educational problems.

In fact, the governor said a state sales or income tax could possibly retard capital investment in the state and, thereby, have the reverse effect on education.

"Quality education cannot be bought," Morrison told the students. "It develops from an attitude among the people." The governor added that he thinks Nebraska presently has as good "quality education" as those states with a sales or income tax.

At a special news conference for the students, Morrison freely admitted the state is going to have to spend more money for primary and secondary education in the future, but he said he does not think it should come from a broadened tax base.

The governor said the state should channel its efforts into expanding industry in Nebraska and, thus, increase capital wealth so local communities can better support their schools.

"What this boils down to," he said, "is expanding the tax base by increasing the tax wealth within the community. This is an ideal way to get more money for education."

Morrison said the state should think long and deep before broadening the tax base because "every dollar taken out of a person's check for an income or sales tax means one less dollar that person has to spend."

The governor also emphasized that he favors local control of schools.

While not stating directly, Morrison's comments were apparently aimed at quelling a fear by the Nebraska School Improvement Association (NSIA) that he is being misled into favoring a broadened tax base and state-aid to schools.

Some Fairs Eligible For State Funds

There are two kinds of county fairs in Nebraska which are approved and eligible for funds from the State Racing Commission, according to an attorney general's opinion issued Thursday.

The county may establish such a fair itself or, if it does not, an approved fair may be maintained by a county agricultural society, the opinion said.

It also said that a county 4-H Club show to be eligible for Racing Commission funds must be "a show for the general purpose of educational or character building of boys and girls and conducted by a club authorized by the U.S. Department of Agriculture."

The opinion was requested by R. E. Boomer, secretary of the State Racing Commission. It was written by Assistant Atty. Gen. Mel Kammerlohr and approved by Atty. Gen. Clarence A. H. Meyer.

Assassination Probers Want Subpoena Power

Washington (AP)— The presidential commission probing the assassination of President John F. Kennedy decided Thursday to ask Congress for power to subpoena witnesses and records bearing on the tragedy in Dallas.

Congress is expected to vote the power quickly. This raised the possibility that the commission headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren may hold hearings, public or closed, to make sure it is armed with every scrap of information available.

But Warren, announcing the decision after 2½-hour initial meeting behind guarded doors, told reporters no conclusions were reached on whether to hold hearings or on other matters. He called a second session Friday.

"The commission has a very sad and very solemn duty perform, but one that is of great importance to the country," the chief justice said.

Thursday's meeting was in one of Washington's most imposing and best guarded buildings — the National Archives, which houses the constitution, the Declaration of Independence and other historic documents. The session merely launched the task of setting up procedures, office and staff for the commission, Warren said.

"We are deliberating somewhat in the dark," he added, "because we have no reports as yet fromany agency of the government.

"The information we have now is little more than what we have learned through the news media."

The edges of newspaper clippings were visible in the manila folders brought into the meeting by some members of the commission.

The FBI's report on the case, embracing findings of a half-dozen other federal agencies, is not yet complete. Deputy Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach attended Thursday's meeting, but it was learned later that he gave no indication when the FBI study will be available.

President Johnson is expected to forward the report to Warren as soon as it reaches the White House. Government sources said it would indicate that the accused assassin, Lee Harvey Oswald, 24, planned and executed the Nov. 22 slaying alone, and that Oswald had to traceable connection with Jack Ruby, the Dallas nightclub owner who shot him to death two days later.

Johnson's executive order creating the Warren Commission last Friday did not give the subpoena power, for the President has no authority to give it.

The order directed the commission to evaluate all the information available and, further, to make any investigation of its own that it deemed necessary.

Without subpoena power, the commission could question any witness who responded willingly to its call, but could not compel the appearance of a reluctant witness or force the delivery of documents withheld.

Warren said that the Senators and Representatives who are members of the commission would sponsor the legislation establishing its subpoena power. One of these Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., said the bill is being drafted now for early introduction. Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., already has introduced one such measure.

Officials Pressing Hunt Of Slayer Of Young Actress

Hollywood (UPI)—Sheriff's detectives Thursday pressed one of the most intensive homicide investigations in recent Southern California history in an effort to find the mystery strangler of brunette actress Karyn Kupcinet.

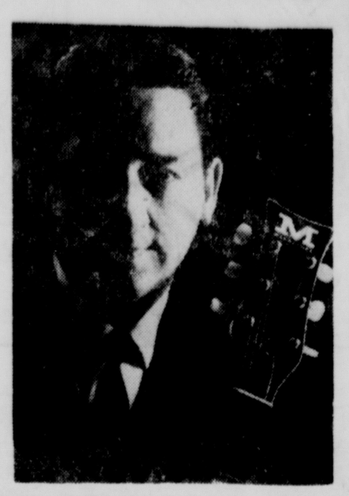

"We want to make it as methodical and complete as possible," said Lt. George Walsh, who has been one of the principal investigators since the body of the 22-year-old actress was found Saturday night in her West Hollywood apartment.

Miss Kupcinet, daughter of Chicago Sun Times columnist Irv Kupcinet, was presumably strangled sometime early Thursday.

A team of detectives has worked almost around the clock since Saturday on the case, and is still in the process of questioning friends, former boy friends, associates in the motion picture and television industry as well as all other known acquaintances.

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another in this example, A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Golf Balls Vs. Goof Balls

Goof balls are being exchanged for golf balls under a program being conducted across the country by a former golf professional and golf course operator.

For those uneducated in juvenile delinquent slang, a goof ball is any one of several drug pills used by today's youth to acquire a happy feeling they are unable to get from a bottle of soda pop.

Floyd Rood, a former golf professional, has undertaken a program to help rehabilitate youthful law violators and handicapped youngsters. And golf is the route he has chosen.

"Our aim is to build playgrounds, not penitentiaries," Rood said on a visit to Lincoln. "We are trying to impress upon people that playgrounds are cheaper than penitentiaries."

To further his idea, Rood gave up his country club in Louisiana five years ago and formed the Floyd Rood Youth and Sports Foundation with its purpose being to help handicapped and underprivileged youngsters and youths confined to reformatories so that they could make a contribution to society upon their release.

Par Is 200,001 Strokes

In an effort to promote his foundation, Rood has undertaken a gimmick project—hitting a golf ball from Santa Barbara, Calif., to Miami Beach, Fla., a distance of 5,280,000 yards with a par of 200,001 strokes.

At the present time, Rood has reached Victorville, Calif., 331.9 miles from his starting point and he has used up 9,223 of his par strokes. Rood started the long-playing course Sept. 15 and plans to complete the round of cross-country golf by April 15.

His playing time on the cross-country course has been interrupted by promotional trips such as the one that brought him to Lincoln this week. Other unscheduled interruptions have also slowed things.

Such as an incident at Long Poke, Calif., where he was bitten by a spider and had to take a few days off for treatment. Or the interruptions by highway patrolmen who thought Rood wasn't quite in his right mind.

Not Really Nuts

But after explaining his story, these law enforcement officers have decided he's not really nuts. Except about one thing—trying to help youngsters regain the right path.

This 52-year-old bachelor's interest in helping wayward or unwanted youngsters started long before 1958 when he formed the foundation to begin his program in earnest.

He has trained more than 3,000 such youngsters to be professional caddies, to repair golf carts and to do other jobs around a golf course. Some of these have gone on to jobs as golf professionals and greenskeepers. Some have gone into business and some have even become doctors.

Much of his training has been done in reformatories, but it has also been done in children's homes and anywhere else that he has found youngsters needing a helping hand.

"Ninety-nine per cent of our youth are good," Rood notes. "But many of them don't have love and understanding at home. They need understanding and guidance and a way to channel their energy."

Rood calls the ages 14 to 20 the formative years. "These are the years where youngsters become restless if they have nothing to do and no one to understand their problems," he says.

Rood compares these youngsters to a steam locomotive. "The pressure builds up for these youngsters just like it does in a steam locomotive," he explains. "But a steam locomotive has a safety valve and after the pressure gets so great, it releases and lets off the steam.

"When these youngsters have no safety valve, the pressure continues to build until they, as they say it, flip their lid. They will then do something wrong, but when interrogated by police, won't be able to explain why they did it. And they are actually telling the truth."

Rood explains that drug pills or goof balls as they are called lead to much of the delinquency, especially on the coasts. "Youngsters on the West Coast can buy these drugs by buying popcorn in a bag for a quarter," he points out. "They pay a dime for the popcorn and fifteen cents for the drug pills that are mixed through the bag of popcorn.

"This leads to other drugs such as marijuana which costs money and leads boys to steal and girls to prostitution to obtain the money," Rood continues.

"It is to combat things such as this that the foundation was organized," he says. "We hope to combat delinquency with sporting goods."

First-Hand Knowledge

And Rood knows whereof he speaks when he talks about the problems of youth. He spent six years posing as a hoodlum and a drunk to learn why youngsters go bad.

He has marks to prove his associations with youth gangs—a scar covers his chest, his chest has been caved in by a stomping and he has taken several other beatings.

"Most of these youngsters were in the gang mainly because they were looking for a leader," he says. "They felt unwanted and they needed someone to follow. Generally the leader was that only because he had been the big bully and had bluffed the other youngsters.

"Today's youngsters are hungry for a leader, for someone they can look up to and follow."

Rood blames this lack of someone to look up to on today's athletes. "There are no Babe Ruths or Lou Gehrigs in sports today," he notes. "Today's sport stars are always too busy to help youngsters. Many of them are even too busy to sign autographs. Ruth and Gehrig were never too busy."

Building The Foundation

One of Rood's purposes for stopping in Lincoln was to lay groundwork for what he hopes can be an exhibition appearance next summer.

The exhibition, Rood explains, would be a golf exhibition put on by a group known as the Hollywood Hackers, composed mainly of top television personalities who have offered to back Rood's Foundation.

"We would tie the exhibition in with some or several local needy projects with only expenses and a small percentage taken out for the foundation," Rood says. "We always plan to leave 90 per cent of the money in the community where we appear to help that city's youth projects."

Playgrounds are cheaper than penitentiaries.

BROWN AP CHOICE

. . . AP Names Nebraska's Brown, Auburn's Sidle

New York (AP) — Navy's incomparable Roger Staubach was named to the backfield of the 1963 Associated Press All-America football team Thursday with Jimmy Sidle of Auburn, Sherman Lewis of Michigan State and Billy Lothridge of Georgia Tech.

Damon Bame, the Southern California guard who is the lone repeater from '62, and Texas Tech end Dave Parks, top National Football League draft pick, are members of a big, agile line averaging 225 pounds per man.

Other early pro draftees up front are guard Bob Brown of Nebraska and tackles Scott Appleton of Texas and Carl Eller of Minnesota. North Carolina end Bob Lacey and Dick Butkus, the superb center-linebacker for Illinois' Big Ten champions, complete the team.

Butkus, Staubach and Sidle are juniors.

Player of the Year Staubach, the Heisman Trophy winner from Cincinnati, has brought a new dimension of improvisation to quarterback.

While guiding the nation's second-ranked college power to an 8-1 mark going into the Army finale, Jolly Roger has taken a record-shattering cruise through the Navy record book. He has accounted for 1,738 yards in total offense.

Because member newspaper, radio and television selectors based their choices on greatest value, the backfield was not picked by position. The quartet is composed of three quarterbacks and Lewis, a 154-pound halfback.

An Auburn team expected to have a so-so year wound up with only a single loss and a bowl date. Sidle was a big factor.

Southeastern board members named him best in the area, followed closely, and in order, by Lothridge and 1962 All-America George Mira of Miami.

Sidle is a ball carrier worthy of any halfback assignment and his 1,006 yards rushing left him just 10 yards shy of the national title in that department. He passed for an additional 706 yards for a total offense figure of 1,712.

Typifying a trend in the game, Sidle became one of the few T-quarterbacks in history to gain over 1,000 yards running in a single campaign. The modest orphan boy has been labeled by Coach Ralph Jordan as the "best in America."

Brown, the 269-pound giant who spearheaded the Nebraska drive to the Big Eight title, caved in two helmets with his blocks and tackles in the first three games. He ruins a pair of size 14E shoes every game.

Brown can play linebacker and defensive end. Against Colorado he raced deep when a halfback was drawn out of position and batted a pass away from a receiver's grasp in the end zone. He also knocked the ball out of a ball carrier's grasp in another eye-opening play.

Mira, even sharper than in '62 but with less help and recordbreaking passer Don Trull of Baylor were a shade behind the leaders. They were in the second team backfield with Gale Sayers of Kansas and Duke's Jay Wilkinson.

The 1963 Associated Press All-America football team announced Thursday:

Ends—Bob Lacey, North Carolina, 6-3, 210, Sr., Pelham, N.Y.; David Parks, Texas Tech 6-2 193, Sr., Abilene, Tex.

Prep Cagers Open Season

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

Balance is expected to be the keynote in Capital City basketball play this season with no odds-on favorite for the city title.

Any one of the city's four Class A clubs is considered capable of grabbing the district title and a spot in the state tourney.

Lincoln High coach Alden Johnson, who has four lettermen back from a team which won six games without a loss in intra-city play last season, looks for spirited competition among the city teams.

"I don't think any team will go through undefeated like we did last year," he says, noting the experienced players returning on the other city squads.

The Links and Class B University High were the only Lincoln teams cracking the top ten lists last season. There should be more of the local clubs bidding for state recognition this season.

The University High team was hardest hit by graduation, but the young Tutors aren't being counted out of the Class B race.

Northeast and Southeast are the busiest teams on the opening weekend of play, each slated for two games.

Lincoln High and University high have single assignments while Pius X is idle until next week.

The opening week's slate:

FRIDAY

Kearney at Northeast—Experience should help the Rockets against rangy, but young, invaders.

Beatrice at Southeast (Johnson Gym) — Should be a good one. Knights get revenge for last year's loss.

Lincoln High at Council Bluffs A.L. — A winning start for the Links.

University High at Geneva—Two young squads going here, give the edge to the Tutors.

SATURDAY

North Platte at Northeast (Johnson Gym) — Invaders don't have savvy to handle Northeast.

Southeast at Omaha Central—Night off Friday swings the edge to the host Central team.

Omaha (AP) — Lincoln Northeast scored 8 points and qualified seven entries for Friday competition in the Omaha North Invitational wrestling meet Thursday night. Lincoln Southeast had 7 points and four qualifiers. Bellevue led with 14 points and 10 qualifiers.

State College Cage Tempo Picks Up

. . . WESLEYAN, DANA, McCOOK ENTER BOUNCE BALL SCENE

By DON SUMMERSIDE
Star Sports Writer

With the entry of Nebraska Wesleyan, Dana and McCook Junior College into competition tonight, state college basketball activity moves into high gear.

Wesleyan and Dana open against each other at Blair while McCook debuts at York JC.

Last week's initial battles did little to establish a form chart for any of the state conferences.

Nebraska College title hopefuls Hastings and Chadron performed as expected.

Hastings had little trouble in disposing of Southwest Kansas, 77-52. Chadron made a creditable showing (93-107) against the national AAU champions, Phillips 66, and then bombed South Dakota Mines, 87-66.

Concordia College established itself as Tri-State Conference contender by taking first in the Doane Invitational.

Loop favorite Yankton found trouble with South Dakota opponents. The defending champ Greyhounds were pressed by General Beadle, 71-64, then lost to Southern by a surprising 80-69 count.

Ft. Hays and Emporia State, figured to be the top threats in the Central Intercollegiate Conference, battled the same Colorado foe with Ft. Hays grabbing a comparative score edge. The Tigers nipped Southern Colorado, 112-110; Emporia dropped a 96-81 decision.

Omaha breezed through a pair of soft openers, 78-59 over Simpson, Iowa, and 82-54 over Midland.

Scottsbluff, defending titlist in the state JC conference, opened strong on a Colorado road trip with an 83-78 win over Northeastern and a 97-76 defeat of Lamar.

Top tests of strength in the coming week include Hastings at Ft. Hays, Lincoln, Mo., at Wesleyan and Kearney at Yankton...

Lincoln Golden Glovers Will Enter Ring Tonight

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Omaha — Lincoln's Golden Glovers, given new life when the Lincoln Associated Master Barbers took over the Capital City program two weeks ago, will go into action here tonight at 8 p.m. against fighters from Omaha and Offutt Air Force Base.

Four Capital City punchers will make the jaunt here for the first Golden Gloves smoker of the season in Nebraska.

Tonight's smoker, scheduled for the South Omaha Eagles Club, will serve as a tuneup for these four fighters who will next see action along with several other Lincoln boxers in a Capital City smoker next Friday night.

Representing Lincoln on tonight's card will be heavyweight Jim Blake, Tim Cox (118), Bob Gropp (135) and Dick Lewis (147). All four are fighting out of the Larry Emery stable.

Blake, a slam-bang crowd pleaser, went to the semifinals of the Midwest Tournment here last spring before being stopped on a split decision by Norfolk's Dale Hixson. Blake was fighting as a light-heavyweight at the time.

The hard-hitting whirlwind-type fighter won the Southeast District championship in Lincoln with a quick knockout of Melvin Moore, also of Lincoln, in 1:18 of the opening round last winter.

Gropp was beaten in the finals of the Southeast District Tournament last winter when Stan Larchick, a ring veteran, stopped him on a TKO in 1:40 of the second round of their bout at the Fairgrounds.

Larchick later lost a split decision to Les Gutierrez in the semifinals of the Midwest tourney here and Gutierrez then won the Midwest title, stopping Larchick's bid for a repeat trip to Chicago and the national meet.

Cox, a stocky battler, is a newcomer to Lincoln after fighting last year at York and in the Grand Island District meet. Cox lost a split decision to Leon Roby in the Grand Island show as Roby was named the meet's most promising boxer.

Huskers Invade Big 10 For Weekend Contests

Nebraska coach Joe Cipriano's basketball team, buoyed by an opening 79-72 victory over Wyoming, will take to the road this weekend for a pair of contests with rugged Big 10 opponents.

Friday night the Huskers will meet the Michigan Wolverines at Ann Arbor, then move to Lafayette, Ind., Saturday night for a date with the Purdue Boilermakers.

Cipriano said he will start with the combination that defeated Wyoming. This includes 6-7 Bob Antulov at center, 6-5½ Coley Webb and 6-1½ Charlie Jones at the forwards and 6-2½ Grant Simmons and 5-10 Harold Cebrun at the guards.

After the two-game invasion of the Big 10, the Huskers return home to host Texas Tech at the Coliseum Monday night.

The Nebraska traveling squad for the Michigan-Purdue swing will include Antulov, Cebrun, Jones, Simmons, Webb, Joel Kortus, Neil Nannen, Daryl Petsch, Al Reiners, Jerry Spears, Earl Wright and Jim Yates.

Big Ten Reduces Scholarship Aid

Chicago (UPI) — The Big Ten faculty representatives Thursday night approved reduction of the number of grants in aid allowed annually to 70 per year, and also restricted the number of grants available for athletes in football and basketball.

No school may grant aid to more than 30 football players in each academic class nor to more than six basketball players. However, schools may carry over five football tenders and two basketball to the following year.

NWU Cross-Country, Football Teams Feted

Films of the Great Plains Association football title win over Hastings were the highlight of a Nebraska Wesleyan smorgasbord Thursday night which honored the football and cross-country teams.

Larry Ribble, junior from Central City, was honored as the most valuable cross-country performer and awarded the Tom Reader trophy for the second straight year.

Hamilton Gets Rassle Bout Against Parks

Reggie Parks, billed as the grappler with the cast-iron stomach, will meet Rocky Hamilton in a challenge match as the feature bout of the Pershing Auditorium rassle card Tuesday night.

Hamilton, in an extracurricular scuffle before the main event two weeks ago, offered a challenge to meet the winner of the Duke Hoffman-Parks match.

Parks won that bout when Hoffman was disqualified and has accepted Hamilton's challenge.

Mitsu Arakawa faces Don Whittler in the semi-final event.

The program will open at 8:30 with Hoffman meeting Marquis De Paree. The gals will take over for the special event with Jean Antone tangling with Jessica Rogers.

Barnhill Saves Hawks

Philadelphia (AP)—John Barnhill intercepted a pass and drove in for a field goal with 34 seconds to play as the St. Louis Hawks scored a 106-103 National Basketball Association victory Thursday night over the Philadelphia 76ers.

Phils, Tigers Make Trade

. . . FOUR PLAYERS INVOLVED

Los Angeles (AP) — "I couldn't be happier," said Jim Bunning.

That was the right-handed pitcher's reaction Thursday upon learning he and catcher Gus Triandos had been traded by Detroit to the Philadelphia Phillies for outfielder Don Demeter and pitcher Jack Hamilton.

"I'm not surprised," added Bunning, who had a disappointing 12-13 record last year after seven outstanding years with the Tigers.

The 32-year-old pitcher was a 20-game winner in 1957 and pitched a no-hitter against Boston the following year.

"We're delighted to get him," said Manager Gene Mauch of the Phillies. "I always regarded Bunning as one of the best pitchers in the American League.

"I think he'll be a big winner for us. His record in All-Star games against the National League has been phenomenal."

The Tigers were equally as delighted in acquiring Demeter, who will play center field with Billy Bruton moving to left. Al Kaline, of course, will be in right.

"We tried to get Felipe Alou from San Francisco," said Manager Charlie Dressen. "But we preferred Demeter. We just didn't think we could get him. Demeter and Alou play about even. Both are excellent outfielders. Demeter may have more power."

2 Overtimes Needed For Bulldog Win

Seward (AP) — A field goal by Bob Schulz sent Concordia into the lead in the second overtime period Thursday night and paved the way for a 94-89 basketball victory over Doane.

The teams ended regulation play at 73-each, then both scored 8 points in the first overtime for a deadlock at 81-all.

Concordia took an 83-81 lead in the second overtime but Doane tied on a pair of free throws before Schulz sent Concordia on its way to the win.

A pair of free throws by Concordia followed Schulz' fielder and the winners were safely in charge the rest of the way.

Huron Defeats Kearney, 82-73

Huron, S. D. (AP) — Huron College hit 56 per cent of its field shots Thursday night in handing Kearney of Nebraska an 82-73 basketball defeat.

Huron never was headed after breaking a 2-2 tie and led at the half by a 43-34 count.

Looney Negotiating For NFL Contract

. . . SEVERS TIES WITH OU

Norman, Okla. (AP) — Halfback Joe Don Looney, ousted from the Oklahoma football squad in mid-season, has severed his last remaining ties with the university and apparently will sign a professional football contract.

This was confirmed Thursday by Looney and also the university's Office of Admissions and Records.

Looney withdrew from classes Wednesday and returned to the home of his parents at Fort Worth, Tex.

He told the Oklahoma Daily, student newspaper, in a telephone conversation he will not return to the university. When he was dismissed from the Sooner squad he said he intended to stay at least through this semester.

Start Negotiations

Looney said he and his father, Don, will fly to New York Friday to begin negotiations with the Giants of the National Football League. The Giants drafted the 224-pound speedster in the first round of the NFL football draft Monday.

"I am very interested in playing for New York," Looney said. "My father played in the National Football League and I want to do the same."

His mother also said the Giants called young Looney "a lot last year."

"So did Green Bay, Baltimore, San Francisco and Minnesota, but he wants to play for the Giants the most," she said.

Looney also was the sixth round draft choice of the Kansas City Chiefs in the American Football League last week.

"Kansas City made him a better offer as of now," Mrs. Looney said. "But if there is only a $3,000 to $5,000 difference in contracts, I think he will sign with the Giants."

Wants Work

Looney said his immediate plans are to find some job in Fort Worth until he can start pro football training, if he signs a contract.

"I haven't started looking yet but I want some type of heavy work to help me stay in shape," he said.

Looney was dismissed from the Oklahoma team by Coach Bud Wilkinson because of "disciplinary reasons." The dismissal came a few days after Oklahoma was defeated by Texas.

Looney admitted Thursday, something seemed to be holding the Sooners back this year although he didn't know what.

"There was something working against us all year," he said.

"Coach Wilkinson tried several things to improve team spirit but nothing seemed to work.

"I think Wilkinson resented me being on the team from the start. I hadn't come up through the indoctrination program like the other guys. This made me an outsider. I always thought I had played good ball at OU."

Robertson, Lucas Lift Cincinnati Past Celtics

Cincinnati (AP) — Oscar Robertson and Jerry Lucas teamed up Thursday night as the Cincinnati Royals handed the Boston Celtics their second National Basketball Association defeat, 118-108.

Robertson scored 48 points, one short of his career record, and Lucas chipped in 21. The Royals are the only NBA team who have beaten Boston this season.

Limited Assurance Of Funds For Lincoln General Given

The Nebraska Hospital Advisory Council Thursday gave a limited assurance of federal Hill-Burton construction funds for the proposed new Lincoln General Hospital.

The council agreed to a statement which said in effect that the Lincoln project will be allocated the funds in the 1965-66 fiscal year provided they are available and if no project with a higher priority is submitted before then.

As things stand now, the Lincoln hospital would get the federal funds after hospital and nursing school projects in Scottsbluff and Holdrege.

Herb Hopkins, counsel for Lincoln General, had asked for the commitment to facilitate the soliciting of funds and implementing of plans for the hospital. Hopkins said he has been advised that the Lincoln City Council is authorized to underwrite the project and suggested it would do so if there was assurances federal funds would be available soon.

$5-$6 Million

The Lincoln replacement hospital would cost between $5 million and $6 million, with Hill-Burton funds paying up to 40% of the cost.

One Omaha council member, Hal Perrin, voted against the watered-down motion while another, D. J. Monen, abstained.

Both felt the council did not have enough information to go on. Perrin said he imagined he would have voted for an assurance to the Lincoln hospital group if he had all the facts.

The council will meet again Jan. 22 at the new Archbishop Bergan Mercy Hospital in Omaha. The hospital will be formally dedicated Jan. 26.

City Must File Accusations In West Lincoln Court Case

Lancaster District Judge Bartlett Boyles Thursday ordered the City of Lincoln as an intervening plaintiff in a contempt of court action against West Lincoln Village Board members to file written accusations against the defendants within six days.

Judge Boyles also ordered the defendants to file an answer by Dec. 23, an trial of the case was set for Jan. 7.

The contempt action arises out of the contention that the village violated a court restraining order and collected a municipal occupation tax from Club Safari Inc. Aug. 26.

The Club had obtained an order May 10 restraining the board from collecting taxes and fees from the Club until further order of the court.

Both the City of Lincoln and the Village of West Lincoln claim to have annexed the 8-block Midway Addition in which the club is located.

On Oct. 29, Judge Boyles dismissed the Club Safari as a plaintiff in the action at the club's request; however, he reserved ruling on the city's position as an intervening plaintiff.

The City of Lincoln was admitted June 6 as an intervening plaintiff to the Club Safari's suit on the city's contention that the club is located in the city by virtue of annexation of the Midway Addition on May 21.

New Arborist License Law Seen Possible

A new arborist licensing ordinance may be introduced Monday before the City Council.

Unlike the previously proposed measure, this one would require licenses only for arborists engaged in trimming or spraying trees on city streets or trees being treated for or infected with the Dutch Elm disease, whether on private property or public.

A general licensing ordinance for all arborists was killed recently by the council after its introduction.

Under the new measure, two classes of licenses would be issued upon examination and payment of fees.

The first-class license would permit trimming, removal and spraying of trees as designated by the ordinance while a second-class license would be limited to spraying. License fees are $15 and $10, respectively.

City officials say the measure is needed to protect the public against persons who are unqualified to work on Dutch elm disease control.

Thompson Jury Rests After Five Hours Of Study

Minneapolis (AP)— Jurors weighing evidence in the T. Eugene Thompson murder trial were taken Thursday night to a hotel for overnight after deliberating for five hours.

The panel of six women and six men retired at 3:58 p.m., took an hour for dinner and left for a downtown hotel at 10. They will resume deliberations at 9 a.m. Friday.

The crewcut, 36-year-old lawyer is charged with planning and paying for the slaying of his 34-year-old wife Carol last March 6. Trial began Oct. 28.

In a 50-minute charge, Judge Rolf Fosseen told the jurors they could return a verdict of either guilty or innocent.

He told the jurors they should not be influenced by pity or personal regard or bias, but that the state was required to prove its case beyond a reasonable doubt.

New York (UPI)— Entertainer Jack Parr announced that he plans to quit his weekly program on the NBC television network. He said his decision was "irrevocable."

Superintendents Briefed On New Teacher Rules

Some 90 attending members of the Nerbaska County Superintendents Association met in discussion groups to be briefed on the teacher certification rules to go into effect Jan. 1.

Paul Belz, director of teacher certification in Nebraska, said authority for certification has been removed from state statutes and given to the State Board of Education.

Belz said this change would make the requirements more flexible — successful teaching experience would be the criteria for renewal instead of meeting requirements for additional college training and hours.

MICKEY ROONEY'S BIG BOY

Like some other people's sons, Mickey Rooney's boy Tim, 16, can look down on his father. Here Tim, who is 5-feet-11 (Rooney Sr. is 5-2), measures up with his mother, Mrs. Betty Jane Kessel, who was the elder Rooney's second wife. Young Rooney was in court at Los Angeles, Calif., to obtain judicial approval of his television acting contract.

Short-Lived Fire Guts 2nd Floor Apartment

An apartment occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Rossow, at 4610 Bancroft, Thursday morning was partially gutted by a roaring but short-lived fire apparently caused by a defective thermostat in a wall furnace, according to firemen.

The two and one-half story frame house is owned by Chris E. Christensen. The apartment rented by the Rossows was located on the second floor.

The fire erupted from the wall furnace in a small clothes closet off the young couple's bedroom. The closet and bedroom were gutted by flames that burned through the ceiling, into the sub-attic and through the roof.

Four other rooms of the second-story apartment sustained smoke and water damage as did the first floor of the house, said a fire inspector.

Rossow, a student at Union College, said most of his and his wife's possessions were destroyed by the fire. He said he left for school about 8 a.m. and that his wife had left for work about 30 minutes earlier. He said there was no fire when he left the apartment.

Mrs. Christensen, wife of the owner, smelled smoke and called the fire department at 8:09.

Firemen saw flames leaping from the roof on their arrival and quickly extinguished the blaze.

Firemen chopped holes in the roof and broke windows of the house to allow smoke to escape.

Fire Inspector DeWayne McIntyre termed the damage done to the house "considerable."

Florida Governor Defends Cape Canaveral Renaming

Cape Kennedy, Fla. (UPI) —Florida Gov. Farris Bryant Thursday stoutly defended President Johnson's decision to change the name of Cape Canaveral to Cape Kennedy.

The decision has come under fire from many local residents, both on economic and historical grounds.

Opponents point out that mapmakers have used the name Canaveral to identify the cape since about the time Spanish explorer Juan Ponce de Leon sailed along the Florida coast in 1513.

But Bryant told a news conference in Tallahassee Thursday that, "The people of Florida, in the year 2063, will look back and understand what President Johnson has done and will approve."

Bryant pointed out that Canaveral means cane field in Spanish, and that while this name was appropriate enough when the Indians so designated it in the 1500's, many changes have taken place.

The governor said the activities at the cape in the past few years were the result of new frontiers of the mind, and that the late President Kennedy more than anyone else, was identified with these new frontiers.

Bryant, stressing the change time brings, pointed out that Brevard County, where Cape Canaveral is located, was once known as Mosquito County, and the city of Jacksonville was first called "Cow Ford."

Order

President Johnson issued an executive order Thanksgiving Day announcing the name change. The order applied only to the space facility at Cape Canaveral and not the peninsula itself.

But in announcing the change Johnson said: "I have also acted . . . to change the name of Cape Canaveral. It shall be known hereafter as Cape Kennedy."

Washington authorities said, however, the announcement itself did not officially accomplish the name — changing of the peninsula and that his action would have to await action by the "Board of Geographical Names" — a board with representatives from 11 federal departments and agencies. The board meets next on January 21.

At Forefront

The little municipality of Cape Canaveral and the nearby city of Cocoa were in the forefront of the protest against the name change. Bryant said he had also received many letters of protest from individual citizens, and Ed Gurney, Orlando Republican who represents the cape area, reportedly has been flooded with such letters.

Most Florida officials spoke out in favor of the name change, however, including House Speaker Mallory Horne, who said he was sort of halfway opposed to it at first but on second though felt it entirely fitting and proper.

"Over the world, the name Cape Canaveral was synonymous with space exploration," Horne said, "and if the name had been changed to something else besides Kennedy, I would have been disappointed. President Kennedy had been so interested in space development that I believe the name change will help the state and that area, politically and financially."

N.Y. Mayor Calls For Make Work Program

San Juan, Puerto Rico (AP) —Mayor Robert Wagner of New York, a potential Democratic vice presidential candidate, called Thursday for a major nationwide program of make work for the unskilled worker displaced by automation.

Better do this, he said, than "just wring our hands" over unemployment.

Such a program, Wagner told a conference on labor problems in the automation age, should be financed by the federal and state governments and with substantial contributions on the local level.

Declaring that automation is here to stay, Wagner said his proposed program should require a minimum of skills to be able to reach a multitude without jobs throughout the land.

Wagner's proposal for a nationwide program could be a first step by the 53-year-old New York mayor to enter the Democratic political arena for 1964. He was mentioned as vice presidential material in 1960 but dropped out early.

President Johnson ignited some political speculation about Wagner by inviting him to sit with Johnson's wife and daughters as the President addressed a joint session of congress last week. Such attention stirred talk that Wagner may emerge as Johnson's vice-presidential running mate in 1964.

Wagner had no comment about 1964 except to say on his arrival here Wednesday night that it would not be proper for anybody to make an announcement concerning a candidacy so short a time after President Kennedy's assassination.

In his speech, Wagner said that Congress has been considering a youth corps and a domestic peace corps but "they are no substitutes for what I am talking about. What we need is a major work program in each locality."

Acknowledging that the cost of his proposed program would be big, Wagner said, "I fear that the cost of not doing it will in the end overwhelm us."

X15 Rocket, U2 Plane Test Spy Techniques

Edwards Air Force Base, Calif. (AP) — An X15 rocket plane — coming close to its own speed mark of 4,104 miles an hour — paired with a high flying U2 Thursday in a research project aimed at finding ways to improve "sky spy" techniques.

The flight plan called for cameras in each plane to make pictures of the same stretch of ground between here and Delamar Lake, Nev., 60 miles northwest of Las Vegas, where the X15 was dropped by its B52 mother ship.

The X15 hit 4,023 m.p.h. en route to 100,000 feet on this flight, which also was to test a new navigational instrument, called a cross-range indicator, in the rocket plane.

The U2's altitude was a military secret, but it is known to be capable of flying above 60,000 feet.

Lt. Col. Harry Andonian, head of the U2 research wing operating from this desert test center said prior to the flight that the pictures taken by both advanced aircraft would be compared as part of a continuing photographic research program.

A spokesman for the U.S. space agency said the purpose of the X15's camera study was to measure the effects of high speed flight on photographic techniques. Air friction heats the X15's skin to as high as 1,200 degrees F. During flights in the 4,000 m.p.h. range and this heat has a distorting effect on pictures taken by cameras as mounted in the X15's fuselage.

Air Force Maj. Robert Rushworth piloted the U. S. space agency's X15. His speed of 4,023 m.p.h. was a new record for him, his previous top being 3,818 m.p.h. and 354,200 feet.

The U2, one of five stationed here for various types of high altitude research, was flown by Maj. Philip T. Smith, 35, of Danielson, Conn.

The cross-range indicator tested by Rushworth is designed to display on a dial in the cockpit any deviation from a planned course.

Boy, 17, Is Molested; Police Hunt Man, 30

Police Thursday were looking for a man, about 30, who molested a 17-year-old Lincoln hitch-hiker near 17th and B.

The boy told police the man, about 5-8 and wearing dark, horn-rimmed glasses, stopped for him and then molested him. The boy told police he demanded the man let him out and the man did.

The man was driving a blue pick-up, the boy told police.

UNCLE . . . says goodbye to Nhu children.

Mrs. Nhu In Paris; Attacks Lodge

Paris (AP)—Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu, widowed former first lady of South Viet Nam, arrived in Paris Thursday and announced she intends to establish a home in France.

Mrs. Nhu landed at Orly Field aboard an American jetliner from Rome, accompanied by her 11-year-old son, Quynh, and 4-year-old daughter, Le Quyen. Her other daughter, Le Thuy, 18, and son, Trac, 15, came to Paris last month to enroll in French schools.

On landing, Mrs. Nhu handed out two statements, one of which she had already passed out to newsmen in Rome on leaving, and a second announcing her intention to make her home in France.

She chose France, she said, "Because France and the French people, either through their chief of state or otherwise, have shown without ambiguity how civilized peoples should act in the face of the ignominious tragedy of Viet Nam."

This was a veiled reference to President Charles de Gaulle, who has critized American policy in Viet Nam. In a cabinet statement last summer De Gaulle condemned "foreign influences" in Viet Nam. Mrs. Nhu also was making her point that Americans are not civilized.

She appealed to the Vietnamese people to continue to seek the objectives of the late President Ngo Dinh Diem, Mrs. Nhu's brother-in-law. She once again flayed the "ignoble dagger's stroke planted in the back of (South) Viet Nam by the very people in which Viet Nam thought it could have confidence."

She appeared to be implying that Viet Nam could place its confidence in France which recently has been following a somewhat independent line in Western affairs.

In Rome, before leaving, Mrs. Nhu issued a new and violent tirade against the United States and Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge. She said Lodge was a "bewildered nanny" in the hands of "South Vietnamese assassins."

Johnson Battled For Unity As Editor Of College Paper

San Marcos, Tex. (AP)—"Let there be no more of contention, of combat, of foolish strife and warring words. Let us unite in the attempt to secure the best for our nation and our people, making high ideals, instead of selfish gain and prideful ambition, our goal."

The strong call for unity was written back in 1929 by a young college editor, Lyndon Baines Johnson, destined 34 years later to become President of the United States and seek a new national cohesion after the assassination of President Kennedy. The editorial was entitled "Armistice Day," and was written for the campus paper, "The College Star."

Here, in this small college town and nearby, they recall the words and the tall lanky youth with bright affection.

Economical

Johnson registered as a freshman in small informal southwest Texas State Teachers College on Sept. 20, 1927. Acquaintances say he chose the school — now Southwest Texas State College — for two reasons: It was economical; and it was close to his home, Johnson City, 40 miles to the northwest.

"He was quite a handsome fellow but a regular beanpole," recalls Dr. A. H. Nolle, retired dean. "I could soon see that he wasn't the scholarly type. But he seemed to have outstanding leadership, a passion for organization.

"Lyndon made excellent grades in the subjects that interested him most—history and social studies. In other things, like the sciences, he did only fair. But he didn't apply his potential to them."

Energetic

Willard Deason, a college classmate who is now an Austin, Texas, radio station executive, remembers Johnson as "an energetic giant."

"One of his favorite expressions was, 'Let's get it done now.' I believe it was his creed of life," Deason recalls. "Another thing he used to say a lot was that he wanted to be with what he called 'can do' people."

Though an active student in several extra-curricular groups, Johnson had to work his way through college.

Slept In Garage

"For a time, he slept in a room in the president's garage," Nolle said. "He was charged a nominal rent but sometimes couldn't pay.

"To earn his keep, he would paint the garage from time to time. It got four or five coats of paint while he was here."

J. R. Buchner, a retired foreign language professor at the college, said Johnson also sold men's socks door-to-door while a student.

"I bought socks from him. Everybody did. He was such a salesman, you couldn't resist him," Buckner said.

Auto Industry Urged To Cooperate

. . . IN FINDING FORMULA FOR STATE PURCHASES

Gov. Morrison Thursday urged the automobile industry in Nebraska to work with State Purchasing Agent Willard Wells in devising a "fair and equitable" formula for awarding contracts on cars purchased by the state.

The invitation came during a meeting between the governor and about 20 representatives of the auto industry who are displeased with a new rating formula being used by Wells — a formula which does not always result in the low bidder winning the contract.

The industry filed a protest with Morrison's office after Wells implemented the new formula in awarding contracts on State Patrol cars, standard autos and intermediate vehicles.

At Thursday's meeting, several spokesmen for the industry called Wells' formula "worthless." They complained the purchasing agent is using too many indefinite factors in the formula.

Previously, the state awarded contracts strictly on a low bid basis. But Wells explained that the low bidder did not always have the best all-around cars.

Wells' formula is based on a rating system under which 50% weight is given to the price of the car; three per cent each to general appearance, service availability, accessibility of instruments, riding comfort and interior dimensions; eight per cent each to mechanical performance and handling performance; nine per cent to cost of operation, and 10% to resale value.

Wells said he is convinced that only the initial cost should not be the sole factor considered in buying state vehicles. He said he will continue to use the new formula until the governor directs him to change it.

Interested In Fairness

Morrison said the only thing he is interested in is devising a formula which is both fair to the state and the auto industry.

"You are fair-minded people," he told the industry representatives. "Why don't you sit down with Mr. Wells and write a formula which is fair to everybody?"

Morrison emphasized, however, that his invitation did not mean he thinks Wells' formula is unfair. He said he has "tremendous confidence" in Wells' ability "otherwise I would not have appointed him to the job."

But the governor added no man is perfect and that if the industry thinks the formula is unfair "present Mr. Wells' some constructive suggestions on how to make it more fair."

Col. Dan Casey, State Safety Patrol chief, also attended the meeting, held in the governor's hearing room in the Statehouse. He testified that the patrol must consider factors other than initial cost because Patrol cars usually receive rougher treatment than other state vehicles.

State Veterinary Association Ends Three-Day Meet

The 67th Annual Meeting of the Nebraska Veterinary Medical Association ended Thursday noon. Robert Garey, executive director of the association termed the three-day seminar a "great educational experience."

The some 300 attending veterinarians and their wives heard several addresses by their collegues on various phases of the veterinary science.

Garey said plans were being made for a summer seminar.

Blue Chips Lead Market To New High

New York (AP) — With blue chip issues leading the way, the stock market spurted to another all-time high Thursday.

The Associated Press 60-stock average and the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials hit new peaks.

The strong advance got its start late Wednesday on news that Republican Senate Leader Everett M. Dirksen had assured President Johnson of passage of an income tax cut bill early next year. The President's continued efforts to obtain quick enactment Thursday heightened optimism.

Trading was heavy and the New York Stock Exchange ticker tape straggled behind floor transactions at the close.

The AP average advanced 1.9 to 283.9 with industrials up 3.2, rails up .2, and utilities up 1.0.

Based on the climb of this average, an estimated $2.75 billion was added to the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow bounced 8.35 to 763.86, exceeding its previous top of 760.50 reached Oct. 29.

Some profit taking occurred with Xerox being thrown for a 14-point loss.

Of 1,344 issues traded, 596 rose and 472 fell. New 1963 highs exceeded new lows 40 to 23.

Volume increased to 5.19 million shares from 4.8 million on Wednesday.

Of the 15 most active stocks 9 advanced, three declined and Sperry Rand, Control Data and American Motors were unchanged.

Steels, rubbers, mail order-retails, utilities, nonferrous metals, chemicals, rails, airlines and tobaccos advanced. Aircrafts, oils and building materials were mixed.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were mixed.

Corporate bonds were mixed and governments were steady to slightly higher.
